

Herald Tribune

Published with The New York Times and The Washington Post

PARIS, SATURDAY-SUNDAY, JULY 3-4, 1971

Established 1887

TODAY'S WEATHER... Tomorrow's weather...

Table with exchange rates for various countries like Belgium, France, Germany, etc.

No. 27,515

Soviet Communist party leader Leonid Brezhnev (center, foreground) helps to carry a platform with urn of ashes of one of the three Soyuz cosmonauts yesterday. The ashes were deposited in the Kremlin Wall.

Funeral of Cosmonauts Held; Cause of Death Still a Secret

By Bernard Gwertzman MOSCOW, July 2 (NYT)—Mikhail V. Keldysh, the president of the Soviet Academy of Sciences, said today that "an unexpected occurrence" aboard the Soyuz-11 capsule led to the death of the three Soviet cosmonauts on their way back to earth on Wednesday morning.

The woman cosmonaut, Valentina Tereshkova, comforts the daughter of Georgi Dobrovolski, killed on Soyuz flight.

Laird Sees Troop Withdrawal By '72 Feasible But Expensive

Joint Chiefs Would Speed Present Rate

By Robert C. Toth WASHINGTON, July 2.—The Pentagon has counseled President Nixon to withdraw U.S. troops from South Vietnam faster than the present 14,000-a-month rate, according to informed sources.

Melvin R. Laird

Materiel Worth Billions Would Be Abandoned

WASHINGTON, July 2 (AP)—Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird today said he saw no problems in pulling all American personnel out of Vietnam by the end of the year, but indicated that the cost of materiel left behind would run into billions of dollars.

Laird Orders Rand to Return All Secret Defense Documents

WASHINGTON, July 2 (UPI)—Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird today ordered all classified information withdrawn from the custody of the Rand Corp. on the grounds that the research firm allowed the leak of the Pentagon Papers on the Vietnam war.

2 U.S. Aides To Give Egypt Latest Views

WASHINGTON, July 2 (UPI)—Two high American officials are scheduled to leave Sunday for Egypt to present new American suggestions on how to undertake further negotiations with Israel on the reopening of the Suez Canal.

U.K. Blind Get Lower TV Tax

LONDON, July 2 (AP)—Britain's blind people have been given a discount on their annual television license fee, it was disclosed today.

U.S. Command Admits Raid In the DMZ and Defends It

SAIGON, July 2 (UPI)—The U.S. command acknowledged today that American planes attacked North Vietnamese anti-aircraft sites in the Demilitarized Zone.

Hussein to Cairo

CAIRO, July 2 (UPI)—King Hussein of Jordan will visit Egypt today for talks with President Anwar Sadat, Al-Ahram, the newspaper, said today.

Human Cancer Virus Isolated In Lab, U.S. Scientists Claim

WASHINGTON, July 2 (UPI)—The first isolation of a human cancer virus—an elusive goal of science for more than half a century—was claimed by a Texas medical team today.

Leary Detained in Switzerland, Asks Asylum

BERN, July 2 (UPI)—The Swiss lawyer defending Timothy Leary, American drug advocate, plans to ask the government to grant his client political asylum in Switzerland.

Timothy Leary and his wife, Rosemary.

ADVISERS LESMEN... E FOR IFREDS

Many Plans Considered

Rusk Denies Johnson Planned Bombing While Campaigning

ATHENS, Ga., July 2 (AP)—Former Secretary of State Dean Rusk said today that, contrary to what the once-secret Pentagon papers say, President Lyndon B. Johnson had "no plans to bomb North Vietnam during the 1964 presidential campaign."

Mr. Rusk made the comments in an interview in the Athens Daily News.

Earlier, Mr. Rusk had said that the U.S. Defense Department papers, revealed first by The New York Times, were a mystery to him, and that no one had ever interviewed him in connection with their compilation.

"I never heard such a report was being prepared in the Pentagon... no compiler interviewed me about it and I never saw a copy of such a report," he declared.

Mr. Rusk said that, after he heard about it, he hoped it would be made public, "and that we will know who the various analysts and researchers are so that we can find out exactly who said what. There is a kind of air of mystery still about the report."

He said that the papers "represent a fragment of the tons and tons of material that are in the Defense Department, State Department and the White House and it is clear that a lot of that material is not available to the fellows who wrote the report."

Asked about the value of those reports to Hanoi or Moscow, he said, "I think they will be very curious about some of the things that went on in our government... if we had comparable information about discussion in Hanoi or Moscow, it would be invaluable to us."

As to whether he believes publication of the reports might cause harm to the American people, Mr. Rusk said, "Actually, 99 percent of the story has been public all along."

"The details about what officials said what to whom and what foreign representatives said to us or we said to them had not in some cases been public," Mr. Rusk declared. "But I think that what has always been in the public record has given everybody full basis for making up their minds about what they think about such things as Vietnam. I don't know of any secrets that would change anyone's judgment on the Vietnam war."

Next, in late June, doctors discovered an apparent epidemic of Hodgkins disease—another kind of lymphoma—in 12 members or close contacts of the 1954 graduating class of Albany (N.Y.) High School. This raised the possibility that Hodgkins disease is infectious and caused by a virus—or maybe caused by a virus triggered by some common factor in this group's environment.

In all, Dr. Frank Rauscher of the Cancer Institute said recently, "the era of the '70s is the era of confrontation with the cancer mystery and will reveal more about the mechanism of cancer than any time since the inception of research."

Identified in 1957 Dr. Dmochowski (with C.E. Grey) first identified what he believed to be C-type viruses in the lymph nodes of a Houston patient in 1957.

But identifying a virus—in electron microscope photos magnified perhaps 90,000 times—and snagging it are two different things. The latter was finally accomplished by Dr. Priori, Dr. Dmochowski and colleagues with the virus from the boy with Burkitt's lymphoma—a cancer that particularly affects the face and bone marrow.

To "isolate" a virus, a scientist must not only grow it in a lab dish full of cells. He must show that he can infect other such cultures with an extract, then do so in culture after culture in what virologists call "serial culture." The Houston group has made 40 such passages.

They have sent cultures to others, and workers at both the Cancer Institute and New York's Memorial Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center have shown that their particles are not contaminants, or animal cancer viruses that somehow migrated in the laboratory.

A next step, if the victims were animals, would be to try to infect other animals. In human beings the ethical approaches must be more indirect: showing that the virus harms cells in the laboratory; looking at other patients for the virus; looking at the general population to learn the virus's distribution.

Evidence already indicates that the virus infects human embryo cells grown in the laboratory, said Dr. Dmochowski.

"This virus's availability provides a tool of great potential for investigation of the role of viruses in human cancer and perhaps even for vaccination," said Dr. Priori.

"This can open up many doors," said the Cancer Institute's Dr. Robert Manaker.

SAIGON, July 2 (NTT)—The government-controlled radio and television networks here have been directed to virtually ignore all mention of the substance of the Pentagon study of the American involvement in Indochina.

At the same time, however, radio broadcasts from Hanoi and the Viet Cong continue to give prominence to the contents of the documents, selecting portions that reflect most harshly on American officials.

In response to questions yesterday, Vu Khanh, an official of the Information Ministry, said that the government-controlled stations here "agreed with the idea that the substance of the Pentagon Papers as reported by The New York Times and other American papers does not have new value for the local public."

"It is thus recommended that this not be carried by the networks," he added.

Other officials denied that any "order" had been issued to the stations, but it was clear that the Saigon government is determined to try to keep the bulk of the population from the news of the Pentagon during this sensitive presidential election year.

South Vietnam's newspapers have carried reports and comments on the substance of the documents, but they are limited in circulation and reach only about 300,000 people, mostly in the cities. About 90 percent of the 17 million South Vietnamese have radios, however, and about 65 percent have television.

So far there has been no official comment from the South Vietnamese government on the documents, except for a brief remark by Foreign Minister Tran Van Lam, who told reporters that the disclosure of the secret papers was "shocking and left him wondering 'whether the Americans can still be trusted.'"

The blunt comment did not please other Saigon government

ANTI-WAR SEAL—Jeanette Rankin, 91, sealing letter to President Nixon asking him to abandon the war. It was part of a nation-wide letter-writing campaign. Long a peace advocate, she voted against WW I and WW II as the first woman member of Congress. She is now living in Carmel Valley, California.

Laird Sees Troop Withdrawal By '72 Feasible But Expensive

(Continued from Page 1) ever, cautioned that some aspects of the Communist proposal were "clearly unacceptable" to the administration. It said that the U.S. response would be presented in Paris in the near future, but warned that the United States could accept "no arrangement which would have the effect of turning some 17 million South Vietnamese over to the Communists."

clarification from Washington on U.S. reaction to the proposals she put forward yesterday at the talks.

After a 35-minute talk with French Foreign Minister Maurice Schumann, Mrs. Binh was asked by newsmen what she thought about statements from the White House and State Department that the plan contains "positive as well as clearly unacceptable elements." She said: "We don't know what they are talking about and what they find positive or unacceptable in our propositions. We are waiting for them to say."

Mrs. Binh met Mr. Schumann at her request. She said she wanted to inform him of the seven-point plan she had presented at the talks.

Paris, July 2 (AP)—Mrs. Nguyen Thi Binh, Viet Cong foreign minister and chief of its mission to the Paris peace talks, today said she was awaiting further clarification from Washington on U.S. reaction to the proposals she put forward yesterday at the talks.

After a 35-minute talk with French Foreign Minister Maurice Schumann, Mrs. Binh was asked by newsmen what she thought about statements from the White House and State Department that the plan contains "positive as well as clearly unacceptable elements." She said: "We don't know what they are talking about and what they find positive or unacceptable in our propositions. We are waiting for them to say."

Mrs. Binh met Mr. Schumann at her request. She said she wanted to inform him of the seven-point plan she had presented at the talks.

Paris, July 2 (WP)—More than three-fourths of the Communist prisoners of war held by South Vietnam are Viet Cong, rather than North Vietnamese regulars, a Saigon government spokesman disclosed yesterday.

Nguyen Trieu Dan, South Vietnamese press spokesman at the Paris peace talks, said that of a total of 37,616 Communist military men held by the Saigon government, 8,601 were North Vietnamese Army regulars.

The total figure of 37,616 does not include civilian Communist prisoners, who according to the Viet Cong number "hundreds of thousands."

Paris, July 2 (NTT)—The government-controlled radio and television networks here have been directed to virtually ignore all mention of the substance of the Pentagon study of the American involvement in Indochina.

At the same time, however, radio broadcasts from Hanoi and the Viet Cong continue to give prominence to the contents of the documents, selecting portions that reflect most harshly on American officials.

In response to questions yesterday, Vu Khanh, an official of the Information Ministry, said that the government-controlled stations here "agreed with the idea that the substance of the Pentagon Papers as reported by The New York Times and other American papers does not have new value for the local public."

"It is thus recommended that this not be carried by the networks," he added.

Other officials denied that any "order" had been issued to the stations, but it was clear that the Saigon government is determined to try to keep the bulk of the population from the news of the Pentagon during this sensitive presidential election year.

South Vietnam's newspapers have carried reports and comments on the substance of the documents, but they are limited in circulation and reach only about 300,000 people, mostly in the cities. About 90 percent of the 17 million South Vietnamese have radios, however, and about 65 percent have television.

So far there has been no official comment from the South Vietnamese government on the documents, except for a brief remark by Foreign Minister Tran Van Lam, who told reporters that the disclosure of the secret papers was "shocking and left him wondering 'whether the Americans can still be trusted.'"

Pentagon Papers—VI—New Warnings of Failure

By Neil Sheehan

BEFORE the opening of the air war in the spring of 1965, the administration warnings were sounded high in that it would not succeed. Now there were warnings that a ground war in the South might prove fruitless. The warnings came not only from Under Secretary of State George W. Ball, long known as a dissenter on Vietnam, but also from John A. McCone, Director of Central Intelligence, who felt the actions planned were not strong enough.

On April 2, Mr. McCone circulated a memorandum within the National Security Council asserting that unless the United States was willing to bomb the North "with minimum restraint" to break Hanoi's will, it was unwise to commit ground troops to battle.

"In effect," he said, "we will find ourselves mired down in combat in the jungle in a military effort that we cannot win and from which we will have extreme difficulty extracting ourselves."

It is not clear from the documentary record whether President Lyndon B. Johnson read this particular memorandum, but the Pentagon study says Mr. McCone expressed these same views in a personal memorandum to the President on April 28.

In a separate intelligence estimate for the President on May 6, Vice-Adm. William F. Raborn Jr., Mr. McCone's successor, indicated agreement with Mr. McCone.

Mr. Ball's dissent came from the opposite side. He believed that neither bombing the North nor fighting the guerrillas in the South nor any combination of the two offered a solution and said so in a memorandum circulated on June 28, the study reports.

"Convinced that the U.S. was pouring its resources down the drain in the wrong place," the account goes on, Mr. Ball proposed that the United States "cut its losses" and withdraw from South Vietnam.

Ball's Analysis "Ball was cold-blooded in his analysis," the study continues, describing the memorandum. "He recognized that the U.S. would not be able to avoid losing face before its Asian allies if it staged some form of conference leading to withdrawal of U.S. forces. The losses would be of short-term duration, however, and the U.S. could emerge from this period of travail as a wiser and more mature nation."

On July 1, the analyst says, Mr. Ball repeated his proposal for withdrawal in a memorandum to the President entitled "A Compromise Solution for South Vietnam."

But the President, the narrative continues, was now heeding the counsel of Gen. William C. West, U.S. military commander in Vietnam, to embark on a full-scale ground war. The study for this period concludes that Mr. Johnson and most of his administration were in no mood for compromise on Vietnam.

As an indication of the administration's mood during this period, the study cites "a marathon public-information campaign" conducted by Secretary of State Dean Rusk late in February and early in March as sustained bombing was getting underway.

"Mr. Rusk, the study says, sought to signal a seemingly reasonable but in fact quite tough U.S. position on negotiations, demanding that Hanoi 'stop doing what it is doing against its neighbors before any negotiations could prove fruitful.'"

"Rusk's disinterest in negotiations at this time was in concert with the view of virtually all of the key advisers, that the path to peace was not open," the Pentagon account continues. "Hanoi held sway over more than half of South Vietnam and could see the Saigon government crumbling before her very eyes. The balance of power at this time simply did not furnish the U.S. with a basis for bargaining and Hanoi had no reason to accede to the hard terms that the U.S. had in mind. Until military pressures on North Vietnam could tilt the balance of forces the other way, talk of negotiation could be little more than a hollow exercise."

The study also says that two of the President's major moves involving the bombing campaign in the spring of 1965 were designed, and often public support for the air war by striking a position of compromise. But in fact, the account goes on, the moves masked publicly unstated conditions for peace that were not "compromise" terms, but more akin to a "cease and desist" order that, from the D.R.V./V.C. point of view, was tantamount to a demand for their surrender. "D.R.V." denotes the Democratic Republic of Vietnam; "V.C." the Viet Cong.

Offer to Negotiate In Mr. Johnson's first action, his speech at the Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore on April 7, he offered to negotiate "without posing any pre-conditions" and also held out what the study calls a "billion-dollar carrot" in the form of an economic-development program for the Mekong River basin financed by the United States, in which North Vietnam might participate.

The second action was the unannounced five-day pause in bombing in May, during which the President called upon Hanoi

THIS IS the sixth article in the International Herald Tribune of The New York Times series on a secret study made in the Pentagon of American participation in the Vietnam war. The study was prepared in 1967-68 by a large team of authors. It consists of 3,000 pages of analysis and 4,000 pages of supporting documents and covers nearly three decades of American policy toward Southeast Asia.

to accept a "political solution" in the South. This "seemed to be aimed more at clearing the decks for a subsequent intensified resumption than it was at evoking a reciprocal act of de-escalation by Hanoi," the study says. Adm. Raborn, in his May 6 memorandum, had suggested a pause for this purpose and as an opportunity for Hanoi "to make concessions with some grace."

The air attacks had begun on Feb. 8 and Feb. 11 with reprisal raids, code-named Operations Flaming Dart 1 and 2, announced as retaliation for Viet Cong attacks on American installations at Pleiku and Qui Nhon.

In public administration statements on the air assaults, the study goes on, President Johnson broadened "the reprisal concept as gradually and imperceptibly as possible" into sustained air raids against the North, in the same fashion that the analyst describes him blurring the shift from defensive to offensive action on the ground during the spring and summer of 1965.

The study declares that the two February strikes—unlike the Tonkin Gulf reprisals in August, 1964, which were tied directly to a North Vietnamese attack on American ships—were publicly associated with a "larger pattern of aggression" by North Vietnam. Flaming Dart 2, for example, was characterized as "a generalized response to 'continued acts of aggression,'" the account notes.

Continued Bombing "Although discussed publicly in very muted tones," it goes on, "the second Flaming Dart operation constituted a sharp break with past U.S. policy and set the stage for the continuing bombing program that was now to be launched in earnest."

In another section of the study, a Pentagon analyst remarks that "the change in ground rules... posed serious public-information and stage-managing problems for the President."

It was on Feb. 13, two days after this second reprisal, that Mr. Johnson ordered Operation Rolling Thunder. An important influence on his unpublicized decision was a memorandum from his special assistant for national security affairs, McGeorge Bundy, who was heading a fact-finding mission in Vietnam when the Viet Cong attack at Pleiku occurred on Feb. 7. With Mr. Bundy were Assistant Secretary of Defense John T. McNaughton and Deputy Assistant Secretary for was undated.

"A policy of sustained reprisal against North Vietnam" was the strategy advocated by Mr. Bundy in his memorandum, drafted on the President's personal Boeing-707, Air Force One, while returning from Saigon in the same day.

The memorandum explained that the justification for the air attacks against the North, and their intensity, would be keyed to the level of Viet Cong activity in the South.

"We are convinced that the political values of reprisal require a continuous operation," Mr. Bundy wrote. "Episodic responses geared on a one-for-one basis to 'spectacular' outrages would lack the persuasive force of sustained pressure. More important still, they would leave the Communists to avoid reprisals entirely by giving up only a small element of their own program... It is the great merit of the proposed scheme that to stop it the Communists would have to stop enough of their activity in the South to permit the probable success of a determined pacification effort."

"Unique Articulation" The analyst notes, however, that Mr. Bundy's memorandum was a "unique articulation of a rationale for the Rolling Thunder policy" because Mr. Bundy held out as the immediate benefit an opportunity to rally the anti-Communist elements in the South and achieve some political stability and progress in pacification. "Once such a policy is put in force," Mr. Bundy wrote, in summary conclusions to his memorandum, "we shall be able to speak in Vietnam on many topics and in many ways, with growing force and effectiveness."

It was also plausible, he said, that bombing in the North, "even in a low key, would have a substantial depressing effect upon the morale of Viet Cong cadres in South Vietnam."

Mr. Bundy, the study remarks, thus differed from most other proponents of bombing. These included Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor, who deplored of improving the Saigon government's effectiveness and who wanted bombing primarily as a "warning device" to inflict such pain or threat of pain upon the D.R.V. that it would be compelled to order a stand-down of Viet Cong violence," in the study's words.

As several chapters of the Pentagon study show, some administration strategists—particularly Walt W. Rostow, chairman of the State Department's Policy Planning Council—had assumed for years that "calculated doses" of notify heads of government or state of the planned air war until further notice "in view of the disturbed situation in Saigon."

The situation there, the study says, remained "disturbed" for nearly a week while the Young Turks also sought to get rid of Gen. Khanh.

"The latter made frantic but unsuccessful efforts to rally his supporters," the study says, and finally took off in his plane to avoid having to resign as commander in chief. "Literally running out of gas in Nha Trang shortly before dawn on Feb. 21, he submitted his resignation, claiming that a 'foreign hand' was behind the coup. No one, however, could be quite certain that Khanh might not re-appear once again, unless he were physically removed from the scene."

This took three more days to accomplish, and on Feb. 25 Gen. Khanh finally went into permanent exile as an ambassador at large, with Ambassador Taylor seeing him off at the airport, "glassily polite," in the study's words. "It was only then that Taylor was able to issue, and Washington could accept, clearance for the long-postponed and frequently rescheduled first Rolling Thunder strike."

Less than three weeks earlier, in his memorandum to the President predicting that "a policy of sustained reprisal" might bring a better government in Saigon, McGeorge Bundy had said he did not agree with Ambassador Taylor that Gen. Khanh "must somehow be removed" from the scene.

"We see no one else in sight with anything like the ability to combine military authority with some sense of politics," the account quotes Mr. Bundy as having written.

In the meantime, two more Rolling Thunder strikes—2 and 3—had also been scheduled, and then canceled because, the study says, the South Vietnamese Air Force was on "coup alert" in Saigon.

During part of this period, air strikes against North Vietnam were also inhibited by a diplomatic initiative from the Soviet Union and Britain. They moved to reactivate their co-chairmanship of the 1954 Geneva Conference on Indochina to consider the current Vietnam crisis. Secretary Rusk cabled Ambassador Taylor that the diplomatic initiative would not affect Washington's decision to begin the air war, merely its timing.

According to the Pentagon study, the administration regarded the possibility of reviving the Geneva Conference of 1954, which had ended the French Indochina War, "not as a potential negotiating opportunity, but as a convenient vehicle for public expression of a tough U.S. position."

But, the account adds, this "diplomatic gambit" had "frustrated" by the time Gen. Khanh left Saigon, and the day of his departure Mr. Johnson scheduled a Rolling Thunder 4, for Feb. 28.

The pilots had been standing by, for nearly a week, with the orders to execute a strike being canceled every 34 hours.

But the order to begin the raid was again canceled, a last time, by monsoon weather for four more days.

Rolling Thunder finally rolled on March 2, 1965, when F-100 Super Sabre and F-105 Thunderchief jets of the U.S. Air Force hunched an ammunition depot at Xuan Bang, while B-57 bombers of the 7th Tactical Bombardment Group of South Vietnam struck the Quang Khe naval base.

Next—Secretary McNamara seeks to improve effectiveness of U.S. bombing.

World Press Unit Hails U.S. Papers

GENEVA, July 2 (NYT)—The Supreme Court's decision is a cause of great satisfaction because it vindicates the courage of the New York Times, The Washington Post and the other American newspapers in publishing the documents without fear of their consequences," Ernest Meyer, director of the International Press Institute, said Wednesday.

"It is a great victory for freedom of the press and for democracy of the world over," Mr. Meyer, a Frenchman, said.

Approval Obtained Ambassador Taylor apparently obtained what concurrence was possible and on Feb. 8 another cable went out from the State Department to London and eight U.S. Embassies in the Far East besides the one in Saigon. The message told the ambassadors of the forthcoming bombing campaign and instructed them to "inform head of government or state (as appropriate) of above in strictest confidence and report reactions."

Both McGeorge Bundy and Ambassador Taylor had recommended playing down publicity on the details of the raids. "Careful public statements of USG [United States Government], combined with fact of continuing air action, are expected to make it clear that military action will continue while aggression continues," the cable said. "But focus of public attention will be kept as far as possible on D.R.V./V.C. aggression; not on joint GVN/US military operations."

The President had scheduled the first of the sustained raids, Rolling Thunder 1, for Feb. 20. Five hours after the State Department transmitted that cable, a perennial Saigon plotter, Col. Pham Ngoc Thao, staged an unsuccessful "semicoup" against Gen. Khanh and "pandemonium" reigned in Saigon, the study reports.

"Ambassador Taylor promptly recommended cancellation of the Feb. 20 air strikes and his recommendation was equally promptly accepted" by Washington, the Pentagon study says.

Khanh in Exile The State Department sent a cablegram to the various embassies rescinding the instructions to

Pol
Ital
Sho

Pol
Ital
Sho

Pol
Ital
Sho

Pol
Ital
Sho

Pol
Ital
Sho

Pol
Ital
Sho

Pol
Ital
Sho

Pol
Ital
Sho

Pol
Ital
Sho

Pol
Ital
Sho

Pol
Ital
Sho

Pol
Ital
Sho

Pol
Ital
Sho

Pol
Ital
Sho

Pol
Ital
Sho

Pol
Ital
Sho

Pol
Ital
Sho

Pol
Ital
Sho

Pol
Ital
Sho

Pol
Ital
Sho

Pol
Ital
Sho

Pol
Ital
Sho

Pol
Ital
Sho

Pol
Ital
Sho

The most famous producer of diamonds in the world. HARRY Each stone is cut in his own workshop, WINSTON and the choice 29 avenue Montaigne, Paris. is unlimited. It is Balzac 69-07 also in his own workshop that these precious stones are transformed into exclusive creations, justifying the slogan: "from the mine to the jewel".

FAUCHON 26 Place de la Madeleine - Paris at the Grocery HU-KWA-TEA at the Boutique Only the best perfumes at the best discounts

CHUNN Establ. 1925 Norman Albenham (Pres.) PERFUMES Unusual Gifts, Gloves, Bags, Genial, exclusive import discounts 43 Rue Richer, Paris, 2e. Tel. 56-96-14, 56-96-15

HARRY'S NEW YORK BAR 5 RUE DAVID, PARIS 10E TEL. 56 20 20 JUST LEFT THE TAXI DRIVER "L'ARRE BOO BOO" OR "DOOD BOO MEWLEY" LYONS (12 Rue Melville, LYONS)

TAI LORING HONG KONG Suits shipped from Hong Kong to anywhere. Hong Kong Kawa Co. Generalists, 7L

WEATHER Table with columns for location, time, and weather conditions. Locations include ALABAMA, ANHANG, ATHENS, BEIRUT, BOMBAY, BRUSSELS, CAGAYAN, CASABLANCA, COPIENHAGEN, DUBLIN, GENEVA, HONGKONG, LONDON, MADRID, MILAN, MONTREAL, NEW YORK, OSLO, PARIS, PRAGUE, ROME, SAN FRANCISCO, SOFIA, STOCKHOLM, SYDNEY, TAIPEI, WASHINGTON, ZURICH.

Handwritten Arabic text: مكة المكرمة

Over Program on Pentagon

25-13 Vote Asks House to Cite CBS's Stanton for Contempt

By Richard L. Lyons

WASHINGTON, July 2 (UPI).—The House Commerce Committee voted 25 to 13 yesterday to recommend that the House cite the Columbia Broadcasting System and its president, Frank Stanton, for contempt of Congress for refusing to furnish film from its documentary 'The Selling of the Pentagon.'

The issue is expected to come to a House vote week after next. If the House should cite Mr. Stanton and the network, and if the Justice Department decides on Feb. 23 to produce another constitutional confrontation in the courts between the government and the news media.

Police Think Italian Rivals Shot Colombo

NEW YORK, July 2 (AP).—A Police Department spokesman said today that the shooting of reputed crime boss Joseph Colombo Sr. was the result of a "struggle for pre-eminence" in the Italian underworld community.

Robert Daley, deputy commissioner for press relations, told a news conference at police headquarters that "a plot was approved several days before the shooting."

Mr. Daley said that the "plot" embraced other alleged Italian underworld figures. "New information has come to the police in the last couple of hours which indicates that the shooting (of Colombo) arises from a struggle for pre-eminence among persons in the Italian underworld community," Mr. Daley said.

Since the shooting of Colombo last Monday, police have questioned several reputed crime figures in connection with the slaying.

Colombo showed some signs of improvement today at Roosevelt Hospital, although his condition still remained critical. He has been in a coma since the shooting last Monday morning at an Italian-American unity day rally in Columbus Circle.

Mr. Daley said that "it looks at this time that (Jerome A.) Johnson, the black man who shot Colombo and was in turn slain, was a hired gunman—hired by the Italian underworld community."

Asked if the shooting had been approved by bosses in the Italian underworld, Mr. Daley said, "Obviously."

As Last GI's Withdraw

Hanoi's Buildup Along DMZ Considered Test for Saigon

By Peter Osnes

QUANG TRI, South Vietnam, July 2 (UPI).—The North Vietnamese buildup along the Demilitarized Zone, the biggest in nearly three years, looms as a critical test of the South Vietnamese ability to contain Hanoi's regulars.

Unlike their invasion of Communist supply lines in Laos last February and March, the South Vietnamese are now on home ground and American officers acknowledge that a series of serious setbacks would be difficult to justify.

The Communist threat comes also at a time when the last American units along the DMZ are preparing to withdraw, leaving the string of artillery bases on the frontier entirely to the South Vietnamese.

The exact date of the U.S. units' departure from their remaining two DMZ outposts is unknown, but some junior officers believe it could be as soon as the middle of the month.

For the present, the South Vietnamese will continue to get substantial U.S. helicopter and air support and military sources here said infantry of the U.S. 101st Airborne Division will shift their operations slightly northward.

But barring an almost inconceivable change in American policy, the time when the South Vietnamese could rely on any substantial U.S. ground combat support has passed.

Allied intelligence now places some 10,000 North Vietnamese

President Nixon and Sammy Davis Jr. at the White House Thursday.

'We've Both Come Up in the World'

WASHINGTON, July 2 (AP).—President Nixon, with a little ceremony and subsequent joking, appointed entertainer Sammy Davis Jr. yesterday to the National Advisory Council on Economic Opportunity. The 21-member council serves the Office of Economic Opportunity, which concentrates on helping U.S. minorities.

him on the council for the remainder of a three-year term ending in September, 1972. Mr. Davis also offered his help in fighting drug abuse.

both come up in the world, haven't we?" Mrs. Davis was present earlier but left before her husband's commission was signed. Mr. Nixon remarked that he had kidded her by saying he had met Sammy "before she was born."

Garrison Says U.S. Tries to Silence Him

By Roy Reed

NEW ORLEANS, July 2 (UPI).—District Attorney Jim Garrison says his arrest Wednesday on federal charges of accepting bribes to protect gamblers is part of the government's effort to suppress "the truth" about the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

He has long contended that President Kennedy was killed by the Central Intelligence Agency. Recently, he has added the Pentagon, said others in the government "warfare sector" to the list of villains.

"When I went into this," Mr. Garrison told reporters after his arrest, referring to his assassination investigation, "and found out that the federal government, itself, and I refer to the warfare sector, had killed John Kennedy in order to open the way into Vietnam, I decided then I would not quit pushing to bring out the truth, no matter whether they killed me or put me in prison, I knew sooner or later they would try one or the other."

Public reaction since his arrest indicates that many New Orleans residents agree with him. He was cheered by a small crowd outside the federal courthouse Wednesday.

List of Charges Mr. Garrison and nine others, including two high-ranking police officers, were charged by the Justice Department with violating the 1970 Organized Crime Control Act. They were accused of illegal gambling, bribery to obstruct law enforcement, interstate transportation of pinball machines to be used for gambling, and conspiracy to commit these acts.

Gerald Oallingshouse, the U.S. district attorney here, said the government had tape recordings and marked bills proving that Mr. Garrison and the two policemen had been taking payoffs to protect illegal gambling on New Orleans pinball machines. Attorney General John N. Mitchell called illegal pinballs a "$15 million-a-year racket" in Louisiana.

Mr. Oallingshouse said Mr. Garrison was arrested after he had accepted one $1,000 payment in protection money Tuesday night. The government said it had intercepted a cash payment from the pinball operators and had substituted its own marked $50 bills and sent them to Mr. Garrison through an intermediary who had secretly gone to work for the government. It said it had recovered the bills in Mr. Garrison's home Wednesday.

The intermediary, who was described by the government as crucial in cracking the case, is Pershing Gervais, formerly Mr. Garrison's chief investigator.

Mobutu Shuffles Congo's Cabinet

KINSHASA, July 2 (Reuters).—President Joseph Mobutu today reshuffled his cabinet, dropping three ministers and making Jean-Baptiste Albes the new minister of commerce.

Mr. Albes, one of the longer serving members of the government, was replaced at transport by Gaston Kissanga, a former deputy minister. Those dropped from the government were Miss Charlotte Kisimba, at the Civil Service Ministry, Jacques Rissas, at education, and Nestor Watum, at posts and telegraph.

Asking Former Rights Three N.Y. Unions Authorize Strike Against Postal Service

By Roy Reed

NEW YORK, July 2 (AP).—Three postal-union locals, including the 27,000-member Manhattan-Bronx Postal Union, which led last year's strike, voted overwhelmingly yesterday to authorize a walkout against the one-day-old U.S. Postal Service.

The locals authorized their representatives to take strike action if necessary late this month when a 45-day extension of contract negotiations runs out. A strike cannot come before July 20 or 25, when the extension runs out.

"Going besides the MBPU local were the 3,000-member American Postal Workers' Union and Brooklyn Local 251 of the United Federation of Postal Clerks, with 2,000 members.

The workers are demanding the same rights, protections and grievance procedures under the new U.S. Postal Service, a semi-private corporation, as they enjoyed previously under the government-run Post Office Department.

Longshoremen Strike SAN FRANCISCO, July 2 (AP).—Civilian cargo shipping came to a virtual halt on American West Coast today from Seattle to San Diego in the first coastwide strike by longshoremen in 23 years.

"No change," said James Robinson, an official of the Employers Pacific Maritime Association, as the strike entered its second day along the entire coast.

In 24 ports between the Canadian and Mexican borders, most of the 15,000 members of the International Longshoremen and Warehousemen's Union have been idled.

"We can't lose," said Joe Gillet, an ILWU official in Los Angeles. The last ILWU strike, in 1948, lasted 95 days.

The longshoremen are asking higher pay, guaranteed weekly wages and a pension at 62. Mail, military cargo and passenger baggage continued to be handled by mutual agreement, but all other dock work halted at 8 a.m. yesterday. Negotiations broke off late Wednesday night, less than two hours before the ILWU's five-year contract expired at midnight.

Copper Workers Out SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, July 2 (UPI).—Copper company workers in eight states went on strike yesterday as their contracts expired.

Pickets representing 38,000 striking workers in a combing of 25 unions marched outside the mines of major companies in Utah, Arizona, Montana, Nevada and New Mexico, Texas, Washington and New Jersey.

Eight companies were idled by the strike, including the Big Four of Kennecott, Anaconda, Phelps Dodge and American Smelting and Refining.

Draft Lottery Due in July Even if Law Is Delayed

WASHINGTON, July 2 (UPI).—Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird said today that the draft lottery for 1972 will be held in July even if Congress does not complete action on legislation to extend the draft law.

The lottery had been scheduled July 1, but was postponed when House-Senate conferees failed to reach agreement on the draft bill. The basic law expired at midnight Wednesday.

Mr. Laird said youths who will fall into the draft pool next year—largely 19-year-olds—should be told now what their lottery number will be so they can begin making plans.

Kenya Assails French Jet Deal In South Africa

NAIROBI, Kenya, July 2 (AP).—The Kenya government yesterday described the French move to license construction of Mirage military jets in South Africa as "hypocritical" and "in complete defiance of world opinion."

Foreign Minister Njoroge Mungai said France had decided, despite assurances to the contrary, to support the Vorster regime and its apartheid policy.

Mr. Mungai said President Georges Pompidou had given personal assurance to President Kaunda of Zambia last October that France would review its arms policy on South Africa because it attached importance to friendly relationships with African states.

Mr. Mungai said Kenya firmly believes the arms "are intended for no other purpose than the massacre of defenseless Africans fighting for their rights and for the eventual invasion of African states which give assistance to liberation movements."

Americans Abroad To Mark July 4th

PARIS, July 2 (UPI).—Americans throughout Europe will celebrate the Fourth of July in the traditional way with numerous embassy garden parties, all-denominational church services, followed by rites at various cemeteries, and in some cases, parades with military bands.

In Paris there will be a full day of ceremonial and social observances. The American Legion and the Daughters of the American Revolution will lay a wreath at the statue of Rochambeau, near the Trocadero. Later there will be an American Legion parade up the Champs-Élysées to rekindle the flame at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier at the Arc de Triomphe. And finally, there will be open-house receptions at the American Legion Pershing Hall and at the USO on the Champs-Élysées.

Six Mexican Students Hit In Gun Battle

One Wounded Critically In Fighting at Puebla

PUEBLA, Mexico, July 2 (UPI).—At least six students were wounded, one critically, when gun battles broke out yesterday in the main square of this industrial city and at the nearby campus of Puebla University, Red Cross officials said.

Witnesses said about 1,000 students were involved. They said two groups of students fired pistols and threw rocks at each other.

Police, the governor's office and university officials declined to comment.

The rector of the university and the school's 38 trustees resigned today to protest the battle.

Ignacio Flores Rojas, a 47-year-old lawyer, said in his resignation that "opposing interests" were propelling the university "toward a fatal destiny."

Mexico's 4th Biggest Mr. Flores took office three months ago as head of the 14,000-student public institution, fourth largest in Mexico. His resignation was accepted by the trustees, who then unanimously tendered their own resignation to the university's faculties.

Witnesses said the students began fighting outside the administrative headquarters building in downtown Puebla yesterday, apparently in protest over elections held Wednesday for the university's board of governors. They said the fighting quickly spread to the campus, four miles out of town. Students turned over 13 city buses in the riot, witnesses said.

One of the wounded students was hit in the chest and was in critical condition. Red Cross officials said.

Merchants in the downtown area closed their shops during the seven hours of fighting, according to witnesses.

Puebla, a city of about 500,000 persons, is located about 85 miles southeast of Mexico City.

Police held off would not interfere with the fighting, witnesses said.

The shooting halted about 4 p.m., they said.

Observers said the fighting yesterday was the most serious of any of the numerous incidents which have struck Puebla University over the past five years.

Golden Gate Bridge: Paid in Full

SAN FRANCISCO, July 2 (UPI).—The Golden Gate Bridge at last is paid for, 25 years after its completion.

A $2,880,700 check to the Bank of America yesterday retired the last of the $85,000,000 in federal obligation bonds issued to finance the design and construction of the bridge in the 1930s. It was opened May 27, 1937. In a ceremony on the bridge yesterday, one of the bonds was symbolically burned.

The span still requires millions of dollars for upkeep and repair, including $7,000,000 in the next few years to replace supporting cables. Other millions are needed for painting, a perpetual job. It takes 4 1/2 years to paint the bridge completely and as soon as the job is completed, it starts again.

When the bridge was opened on May 27, 1937, it was expected that "eventually" there would be 10 million vehicles a year crossing it. "Last year, we had over 33 million vehicles," bridge district manager Dale Hehring said yesterday.

IATA Consensus Is for Fare Of About $200 Across Atlantic

MONTREAL, July 2 (AP-DJ).—Delegates at the International Air Transport Association conference here are "generally agreed" on the need to offer special North Atlantic fares in the "plus or minus the $200 region," H. Don Reynolds, the conference chairman, said today.

Mr. Reynolds, however, said some airlines are against the idea of an advance purchase plan because they feel it would be inefficient and costly to administer. Under an advance purchase plan, a passenger gets the lower rate if he pays for the flight some months in advance.

"With low-level fares we get into an entirely different concept of costing and pricing," Mr. Reynolds said.

Many Different Ideas Mr. Reynolds said the delegates, who began discussing special low-level fares this morning, have many different ideas as to how such schemes could be operated and "at this stage we don't know whether it should be group or individual advance booking or some other type of plan."

The conference, which began four days ago, is expected to last a month. Mr. Reynolds said low-level fares will be among the topics discussed "down to the last gavel."

Meanwhile, in New York, Icelandic Airlines announced a new round-trip youth fare of $165 on its jet route between New York and Luxembourg.

The fare, effective Aug. 1, subject to U.S. government approval, will be the lowest offered to individual passengers on flights between the United States and Europe.

All youths aged 12 through 29 who show passport proof of age will be eligible, Icelandic said.

A high-season round-trip fare of $185 will be in effect for West-bound passengers from Aug. 1 through Sept. 10 and also for ten days before and after Christmas and Easter for passengers flying in either direction. Passengers whose flights overlap the high and low seasons will be charged $175.

Lightning Strikes 747 Over N.Y.C.

NEW YORK, July 2 (AP).—An incoming Aer Lingus 747 was struck by lightning while flying a holding pattern over Long Island last night, but landed safely at Kennedy Airport, the airline said today.

The lightning bolt cracked the pilot's windshield, said a spokesman, but did not obliterate the pilot's view. The plane was brought down immediately out of the holding pattern to land.

There were no injuries, and the 337 passengers were not told that lightning had struck the aircraft, said the spokesman.

Lightning also struck the RCA Building in Rockefeller Center yesterday and hurled a 200-pound piece of limestone 70 stories down to the street. Two men suffered leg cuts and bruises when the limestone shattered on hitting the ground.

L&M... for people who know about pure pleasure. L&M is good taste. Fine, rich tobaccos, pure white filter. People with a taste for living choose L&M. for the pure pleasure of it.

MICHEL SWISS PERFUMS-GLOVES BAGS-TIES-GIFTS SPECIAL EFFORT DISCOUNT 18 Rue de la Paix - PARIS

FREDDY PERFUMS GLOVES - BAGS - GIFTS 10 RUE AUBER, PARIS SPECIAL EFFORT DISCOUNT

Mrs. Binh's New 'Peace Plan'

An offer to link prisoner release directly to troop withdrawal is the principal new feature of the "peace plan" presented by the Viet Cong's Mrs. Binh in Paris Thursday. This is a major and positive development. The offer meets Mr. Nixon's insistence that the other side not merely promise to discuss prisoner release but make a definite commitment to release prisoners. It provides a seemingly ironclad way to assure the return of the POWs. And it gives a large boost to those in the Congress and the country at large who believe that the only further reason for the United States to linger in Indochina is to assure that all prisoners come home. This is particularly relevant because a Senate-House conference is currently hung up on the Mansfield amendment to the draft bill. The amendment, urging the President to withdraw within nine months if the prisoners are released, has been accepted by the Senate and rejected—though not by much—by the House.

Just to the extent that the new offer makes it easier for the United States to retrieve the prisoners, however, it will be objectionable to Mr. Nixon, for it does not promise to satisfy his primary war aim, which is to give the Saigon government a reasonable chance to survive without continuing American ground combat support. It is, of course, precisely Hanoi's and the Viet Cong's primary war aim to thwart Mr. Nixon in his effort to select the government of South Vietnam. So it is understandable that the new "peace plan" places no obligation of withdrawal on the troops of North Vietnam and that President Thieu and his circle would be ineligible for the proposed "government of national concord." These features would bestow on the Communists a degree of leverage in arranging South Vietnam's future which Mr. Nixon has shown no inclination to allow them to have. Throw in the obvious point that a commitment to complete withdrawal would preclude Mr. Nixon's planned 45,000-man residual force —which he deems essential in order to permit the Saigon government to fight on in the highly technological style to which the United States has accustomed it—and it is not hard to see why he may find Mrs. Binh's plan objectionable.

The President's choice, then, has never been sharper. The Viet Cong offer suggests enough movement—on the crucial prisoner issue—so that Mr. Nixon can no longer seek refuge in the contention that the Communist position has not improved. He can no longer, in effect, hide behind the prisoners. Quite probably, this was Mrs. Binh's intent: to squeeze the President against the Senate and his domestic critics on one side, and his support of President Thieu, who is up for re-election in October, on the other. For if Mr. Nixon moves on the path now apparently opened to retrieve the prisoners, he risks undoing President Thieu and the effort to sustain an independent non-Communist government in Saigon.

The dilemma unquestionably is harsh, and it is not at all certain that the new "peace plan" in all its seven points can clear the way to a negotiated solution. Yet if Mr. Nixon flinches from his dilemma and avoids serious efforts to explore the Viet Cong plan, he tempts other troubles as well. In particular, he risks losing a chance—which may or may not recur soon—to reclaim the prisoners, who have suffered too long and whose continued suffering has become, with no little administration encouragement, a matter of tremendous political significance at home. There are worse things than complicating the political fortunes of President Thieu and one of them would be to lose a precious opportunity to bargain for the return of the POWs. It is conceivable, furthermore, that the Viet Cong and Hanoi may be willing to pay a certain price—in terms of immediate political arrangements in Saigon—in order to pry the United States out of Vietnam. The Viet Cong offer may sharpen a dilemma for Mr. Nixon. But it offers an opportunity as well.

THE WASHINGTON POST.

A Closer Look at the Trade Deficit

At first glance the announcement that the economy has suffered its first trade deficit two months running in 21 years seems to prove the administration's contention that the United States has got to "get tough" with its competitors abroad. In the first five months of 1971, the value of American exports barely exceeded the value of imports. This, it will be said, is obviously a situation which a country with our costly overseas commitments cannot for long sustain. Certainly the new figures will be used as further ammunition by those who fear American exports are becoming less competitive and, as well, by American business and labor interests seeking quota or tariff protection.

In at least two significant senses, however, the figures are seriously misleading. First, from the consumer viewpoint, imports are more to be welcomed for their healthy depressant impact on domestic price levels than scorned for the added competition they offer to homemade goods. Instead of a headline reading "U.S. Trade Position Worsens," it would be just as apt to say: "U.S. Consumer Position Brightens." The labor movement used to recognize this very well, in the days before its judgment on such matters was cornered by the minority of unions engaged in production of goods in international commerce. This is not to rule out appropriate relief to industries facing damaging import competition; it is to rebut the common presumptive tendency, fostered by industry and administration alike, to ascribe trade ills to unfair foreign competition rather than, say, to inflation or inept management or hungry labor.

Moreover, as Lawrence Krause of Brookings points out in "Foreign Policy," increasingly the United States is producing and exporting services rather than goods, agriculture excepted. This means the trade deficit is likely to increase over the long run. Far from lamenting this trend, Mr. Krause considers it "desirable" and he counts on an increase in returns on American investments abroad to more than compensate for the decline.

The overall meaning of this analysis is plain. Efforts to make American exports more competitive are necessary and appropriate, but the condition of the relatively small export sector should not be confused with the condition of the economy as a whole. American consumers should not be denied the benefits in cost and choice of imports, merely for the sake of inefficient domestic producers. And the national interest in good political relations with other developed countries should not be surrendered to a narrow, special-interest cause.

THE WASHINGTON POST.

International Opinion

The Space Tragedy

Was there some mechanical fault? Some tiny miscalculation? Or did 24 long, weightless days in space carry these three brave men up to, and beyond, the limit of human endurance? It is a humbling thought to set beside the arrogance of man's space achievement. All the world must salute the courage of the cosmonauts, and mourn their deaths. When men go out in space, they go not as emissaries of one bloc or another. They go as the standard bearers of mankind.

—From the Sun (London).

By a coincidence that might be of consequence, the death of the Soviet cosmonauts occurs at the very moment when the United States and the U.S.S.R. have signed in Houston the first convention for cooperation in space rescue operations. It is more than ever to be hoped today that this convention is only a beginning. But this beginning might have great promise, since the principle of adapting the docking devices of the rescue vessels to space vehicles of the other nation might be a first step toward common orbital stations born of the associated technologies of those who have been for so long only rivals.

Let's not indulge in too great illusions as far as the very near future is concerned. Investments for prestige and power and strategic implications are of so much weight in space that internationalization is not for tomorrow.

—From Le Figaro (Paris).

How long can man's thirst for adventure be quenched? Already the scientists are speculating whether the spacemen came up against some mysterious "gravity barrier." And human curiosity can never resist the lure of a barrier. In years to come will the cosmonauts be remembered as the last of a heroic line—or as martyrs whose deaths blazed the trail for a new advance in science?

—From the Daily Mail (London).

In the International Edition

Seventy-Five Years Ago

NEW YORK—According to advices received in Vancouver, B.C. by the last mail steamer from Japan, the latter power has received a warning from Russia to the effect that the Japanese troops must retire from the island of Formosa. A large Russian Army of 100,000 strong is said to be massing at Vladivostok and a powerful squadron is ready to cooperate with it. There is also an English squadron in the area. The island will have a troubled future, one way or another.

Fifty Years Ago

JERSEY CITY, N.J.—Jack Dempsey blasted France's hopes of obtaining the world's heavyweight championship for the first time by knocking out Georges Carpentier in the fourth round of a short but hard-fought fight before 90,000 spectators. Until the 4th, the Frenchman had outboxed Dempsey, but at the beginning of that round, Dempsey rushed out and pounded Carpentier unmercifully. He dropped the Frenchman with a hard right to the jaw. He was up at nine but another right put him away for keeps.

From Rags to $80 a Year

By James P. Sterba

DIKARTA—"I wouldn't have believed it," said an Indonesian student who returned to his country this month after six years of study in Europe. "I got back here, and for the first time I thought to myself that maybe we can make it."

He noted that most of his country's children now wore clothes instead of rags, that the roads were less bumpy, that steel-reinforced concrete bridges spanned rivers where wooden ones had washed out annually. Airlines ran on schedule, beggars are less noticeable.

There are still many pessimists in Indonesia, however, who see this nation of islands—the fifth largest nation in the world in area and population—destined to be a crippled, hungry and angry world-dependent. Many of the long-range projections are bleak, and one can still find many families in Djakarta living in sewer pipes. Per-capita income is still less than $30 a year.

Yet, five years after an era of seemingly chronic economic and political instability, long-time observers see more hope now than at any other time since 1946, when the leaders of Indonesia declared their independence from the Dutch colonial rulers. Travelers returning after a long absence use words like "miraculous" and "spectacular" in describing the changes they see, although many of the changes are admittedly superficial.

Suharto's Role

The progress has occurred under the leadership of President Suharto and the group of generals who assumed power after crushing an attempted Communist take-over in 1965. By force—some say by severe repression—they tightened military control and pushed political processes into dormancy in an attempt to create a climate for development in place of a tradition of religious and ideological bloodshed.

This year Suharto loosened the reins ever so slightly. Under careful stage-managing and an overlay of force, about 57 million Indonesians are to vote today in the first national election for representatives since 1955. Government officials contend that the election is the first step toward popular democracy and the gradual end of military rule.

Although its foreign policy involves active non-alignment and it is seeking renewed friendship with Communist countries, Indonesia is also leaning heavily toward the West.

Two years ago, when Richard Nixon became the first American President to set foot on Indonesian soil, he was planning on Indonesia his hopes for a resurgent non-Communist Asia. Nothing since then appears to have dimmed those hopes. Economic progress, under capitalist tutelage, has, if anything, raised them.

From a period four years ago, when inflation peaked at an astronomical level, Indonesia has settled into economic sobriety. The rupiah inflated last year by less than 8 percent, a better performance than that of the U.S. dollar.

In the 1960s, Suharto's predecessor, Sukarno, spent vast amounts of borrowed money on facades of world leadership, like military hardware and giant monuments, while roads and irrigation systems disintegrated. Now Indonesia is spending its money on rehabilitating roads and communications networks.

Into the third year of its first five-year plan, the government is spending more than a third of its budget on development projects and less than 3 percent on defense—and this in a nation run by the military. In 1963 Sukarno spent 87 percent on defense.

Foreign investors, once frightened off by the country's volatility, have been pouring in for three years in a quest for vast untapped resources of oil, minerals and timber. Indonesians who once sent their earnings out as soon as possible are putting them into banks, here in record amounts.

Rice production increased to some 12 million tons last year, surpassing expectations, and Indonesia is looking forward to being self-sufficient in rice by the mid-1970s.

Timber production has doubled, and oil experts predict that this year's production will hit a million barrels a day. In the next two years, export earnings from minerals are expected to shoot up after several years of exploration and construction.

Though the economic gains are evident, they do not prevent vocal dissatisfaction in the political arena, where critics of the government assert that the election is little more than a public-relations stunt to legitimize the military's continued rule in the guise of democracy.

A Western diplomat commented wryly, "This election is in the great democratic tradition of Taiwan and South Vietnam." But a ranking government official said: "This is an experiment—a small first step. You can't expect us to go from military rule to pure democracy overnight."

Suharto, who long ago traded his uniform for a business suit, has pledged to reduce the size of the military. Last year he put more than 60 generals on the retirement list, but this is still a country with a state of mind that regards a uniform as a status symbol and requires Adam Malik, Indonesia's most prominent civilian, to shake before shaking hands with local officials.

The military men argue that they are the only group with the talent and organizational skills to run the country and push development.

The relative economic stability has been built on a mountain of I.O.U.'s. The Indonesians owe other countries about $4 billion in loans and interest. Until last year they concentrated on holding off the creditors; this year they are scheduled to make their first repayments.

The educational system is in extremely poor condition. With teachers generally earning less than $10 a month—not enough to live on, even in Indonesia—the quality of education is dismally low. The department of education estimates that there are no places for more than six million children aged 7 to 15.

Health care is in about the same state. In Djakarta, the most advanced city in Indonesia, with a population of five million, there is one hospital bed for every 1,200 people. "Those are symptoms of the major problem—overpopulation. Although experts warn that it can overcome the most successful development efforts, birth control programs are not a major priority and have just gotten underway. Estimates of the population range from 115 million to 123 million. Although the outer islands lack people—about 1,000 of the 13,887 are populated—some 78 million people are compressed onto the island of Java, which has an area of just under 49,000 square miles—about the size of New York State.

The stability and the economic growth have had little impact on the daily lives of most Indonesians. Observers fear that unless their lot steadily improves they will form the grist for a Communist resurgence.

The Indonesian Communist party was crushed in 1965 and subsequently banned. Hundreds of thousands of Communists and innocents, it is estimated, were slaughtered in the nightmare that followed the attempted takeover. It is believed, however, that hundreds of thousands of sympathizers escaped death or arrest.

In 1968 remnants organizing in central Java, were discovered and eliminated. Although now largely inactive on the surface, activists are believed to be quietly picking up the pieces. The government has continued a vigorous campaign to ferret them out.

Indonesia earnestly wants to take a place among the important nations of the world, a place many of its young leaders argue is warranted because of size and population alone. Whether it can do so is unclear. It is out of the hospital bed and looking at the sun, and its progress has made its doctors jubilant. But they worry about a relapse.

The United States, the major contributor, granted $232.7 million last year, of which nearly $102 million was for food.

The educational system is in extremely poor condition. With teachers generally earning less than $10 a month—not enough to live on, even in Indonesia—the quality of education is dismally low. The department of education estimates that there are no places for more than six million children aged 7 to 15.

Health care is in about the same state. In Djakarta, the most advanced city in Indonesia, with a population of five mil-

Constitutional Order

By Anthony Lewis

LONDON—Law has always pervaded American life. Lawyers dominate our politics and interpret our Constitution. Even the American Revolution was cast in the form of a return to legality—a revolt against a lawless king.

Not surprisingly, therefore, Americans have a more conscious concern than other peoples with constitutional order. They insist that the great decisions of public policy not only win political approval but accord with deeper national understandings, moral and historical.

A sense that something has gone wrong in this natural order, this deeper rhythm, must play a significant part in the present American mood. When polls show a shattering loss of national optimism, it is not just that we are in a war whose results distress the public but that we get there by irregular means—unnatural means, in the Shakespearean sense.

All this is in the background of the First Amendment cases just decided by the Supreme Court. When the self-congratulatory editorials have been forgotten, along with the hostility openly displayed toward the newspapers by two members of the court, the opinions in New York Times v. United States will be read for their view of the American political understanding.

For the clash within the court was not over the meaning of the First Amendment in some verbal sense. It was over the allocation of power in our democracy. A majority of the court agreed that certain defense and diplomatic information ought to be kept confidential, and that publication of some of the documents involved in these cases would create risks to the national interest. But only for Chief Justice Burger, Justice Harlan and Justice Blackmun did it follow that the President had the power to prevent publication.

The dissenters' view of executive power was set out in Justice Harlan's opinion. It was a strikingly expansive view. Justice Harlan said that the President, because of his constitutional primacy in foreign affairs, has absolute power to keep any matter affecting foreign or security policy secret. Further, even without the support of congressional legislation, he can call on the courts to enforce his decisions by injunction.

Finally, the courts in Justice Harlan's view would have virtually no reviewing function: If the head of a cabinet department had declared the national security to be jeopardized by some proposed publication, the only judicial review would be to make sure that the material at issue was within the "compass" of the President's foreign relations power.

Anyone would hesitate to say this of a judge as thoughtful and as concerned with history as John Marshall Harlan, but the conception of executive power is difficult to square with American premises. To say that the President has primacy in foreign affairs is one thing; it is another to say that he has absolute legal power to exclude the public from the formation of policy.

A Practical Test

Of course, no government can conduct its diplomatic relations on the basis of opinion polls. But it is surely the American constitutional understanding that a president must seek broad public support for his policies; otherwise there would be no purpose in the Constitution's requirements for ratification of treaties by the Senate and declaration of war by Congress.

As it happens, we have just had a test of presidential power in foreign affairs unrestrained by the normal process of public consultation—a practical, not a legal, test. That was the process by which President Johnson expanded the American involvement in Vietnam into full-scale war.

Put to one side the question of how far planning for an enlarged war had gone in 1964. It is beyond doubt that by 1965, when he had decided in favor of massive bombing and troop involvement, Mr. Johnson deliberately concealed the true measure of those decisions from the public.

He pretended for months that American policy was not really changing, and he never brought to view the real debate about U.S. interests that underlay the decision for war.

That way of carrying out the President's foreign affairs responsibility has been found constitutionally wrong, in the profoundest sense, by the American people. Their distrust, now their distrust in the world of political leaders, stems to a great degree from President Johnson's calculated failure to take them into his confidence on the ultimate issue of war.

Our constitutional order is not one of centralized power. It is a system of divided governmental authority checked by an open society. There are terrible risks, but after Vietnam it is not at all clear that the alternative is less risky.

You are now in the position of making demands on the First Amendment. Chief Justice Burger told counsel for The Washington Post in the argument of these cases, but the framers of the amendment wrote it into the Constitution for the benefit not of the press but of the country. They created the system they did, as Brandeis said, not because it was efficient but because they feared power.

Mr. Armand Guédonson has a point in criticizing the lead of my article on the "underground press" (Herald Tribune, June 30). I meant to write, "One of the liveliest manifestations of American influence abroad is in the so-called underground press," but I left out the word "and."

If he had not blown his stack at this point, he would have read on, and perceived that I was making a gently ironic observation: that American influence is as pervasive among the young critics of our society in Europe as among its most uncritical admirers in the world of business. I like American folk music and jazz, for example, but I wonder why European youth prefers it to their own music. (It also wonders why many of them prefer "le dragageur" or "le pub" to an old-fashioned cafe or bistro.)

If Mr. Guédonson had read on, he would also have learned that I described "underground press" as a misnomer, and referred only to the pop-punk-porn journals as lifted from American sources. And he would have found that I saw the "underground" papers as, despite their shortcomings, an encouraging sign that a free press will survive even in the age of mergers and conformity.

JOHN HISS.

Paris.

Underground Press

Mr. Armand Guédonson has a point in criticizing the lead of my article on the "underground press" (Herald Tribune, June 30). I meant to write, "One of the liveliest manifestations of American influence abroad is in the so-called underground press," but I left out the word "and."

If he had not blown his stack at this point, he would have read on, and perceived that I was making a gently ironic observation: that American influence is as pervasive among the young critics of our society in Europe as among its most uncritical admirers in the world of business. I like American folk music and jazz, for example, but I wonder why European youth prefers it to their own music. (It also wonders why many of them prefer "le dragageur" or "le pub" to an old-fashioned cafe or bistro.)

If Mr. Guédonson had read on, he would also have learned that I described "underground press" as a misnomer, and referred only to the pop-punk-porn journals as lifted from American sources. And he would have found that I saw the "underground" papers as, despite their shortcomings, an encouraging sign that a free press will survive even in the age of mergers and conformity.

JOHN HISS.

Paris.

Letters

Kraft on Ellsberg

I am compelled to write regarding certain aspects of Joseph Kraft's column of this morning (July 1) regarding Daniel Ellsberg. Mr. Kraft recalls how Ellsberg "embarrassed everybody" at a Kennedy luncheon by his admissions of complicity in the war effort. One has only to envision the guest list at a 1963 Kennedy function to appreciate the widespread discomfiture. It would doubtless have served the war-makers' egos better had Ellsberg kept his torment to himself, or at least, like Albert Speer, revealed it 25 years too late. But what service would it have done America?

Leaving aside any of a number of justifications for the fear of a man in Ellsberg's position that he might be under FBI surveillance, I must move to Mr. Kraft's most astounding assertion of all: that the war in Indochina is "a shabby affair in an insignificant country distant from the big issues of world history." Does the death of two million innocent civilians during a decade of illegal American occupation of their insignificant homeland qualify the war as a shabby affair, or is there some other criterion for his judgment? Is he so locked into fifties-think that he views global politics as hinging for all peoples on the balance of power between Washington and Moscow? Obviously, for Mr. Kraft the generation gap which history, the war and the domestic shock waves "cannot for long matter much to most Americans." Little wonder then that someone who can so complacently present these neo-jingoistic platitudes in the guise of mature, objective reflections finds it so difficult to come to grips with Ellsberg's "ego involvement" and the psychological context of his recent actions. I have also met and spoken with Dan Ellsberg, and have nothing but respect and admiration for the man and his beliefs. If anyone, is the real American hero of the war.

JONATHAN KING.

London.

Rostow's Views

However well versed an insider he may be in Asian affairs, Mr. W. W. Rostow, in his article "The Morality of Nations" (Herald Tribune, June 24), reveals an extraordinary naïveté with respect to the subject of morality. He repeatedly confuses expediency and that which already exists with moral right, that which ought to be. The labyrinth in which he claims to hold one end of the thread. The most obvious proof of the confusion and of the inverted sense of values conveyed by his remarks (distinctly reminiscent of the logic of President Johnson's self-righteous and near martyr-like television appearances during the last years of his term in the White House) is in his closing statement that "the ultimate sin" is a "sanctionless self-righteousness."

In the face of the hundreds of thousands of deaths in the Indochina conflict (perhaps more directly related to U.S. involvement among which figure 44,910 Americans), it seems rather evident to me that the question of certain moral attitudes and postures is totally irrelevant and is nothing but a pious exercise. Rostow's inability to answer his own questions, may I suggest that Mr. Rostow and Mr. Frank get up off their knees? They'll have a much better perspective on the questions. Besides, divine intervention at this time seems unlikely.

DAVID J. COHEN.

Paris.

Underground Press

Mr. Armand Guédonson has a point in criticizing the lead of my article on the "underground press" (Herald Tribune, June 30). I meant to write, "One of the liveliest manifestations of American influence abroad is in the so-called underground press," but I left out the word "and."

If he had not blown his stack at this point, he would have read on, and perceived that I was making a gently ironic observation: that American influence is as pervasive among the young critics of our society in Europe as among its most uncritical admirers in the world of business. I like American folk music and jazz, for example, but I wonder why European youth prefers it to their own music. (It also wonders why many of them prefer "le dragageur" or "le pub" to an old-fashioned cafe or bistro.)

If Mr. Guédonson had read on, he would also have learned that I described "underground press" as a misnomer, and referred only to the pop-punk-porn journals as lifted from American sources. And he would have found that I saw the "underground" papers as, despite their shortcomings, an encouraging sign that a free press will survive even in the age of mergers and conformity.

JOHN HISS.

Paris.

News Analysis

Effect of Turkey's Barring Opium Poppy Awaited in U.S.

By Richard Severo

NEW YORK, July 2 (UPI)—Turkey's decision to stop the production of opium poppies is a sign of that nation's desire to maintain good relations with the United States. But serious questions remain as to whether it will have any real effect on America's drug problem, even though President Nixon has hailed it as "by far the most significant breakthrough that has been achieved in stopping the source of supply of heroin."

The Federal Bureau of Narcotics has estimated that in recent years, Turkish farmers have been supplying about 80 percent of the illicit supply of morphine used to make the heroin sought by American addicts. But it is also true that Afghanistan, Iran, Burma and Laos produce opium poppies, that their policing techniques are less than adequate,

Taiwan Deal On Drugs for GIs Reported

By Stuart Auerbach

WASHINGTON, July 2 (UPI)—A secret Defense Department report indicates that the Nationalist Chinese sold 70 tons of opium to a Laotian general for weapons; which was then sold to U.S. soldiers in Vietnam, Rep. Paul Rogers has revealed.

Defense Department officials promised to investigate and provide details of the transaction. Officials in charge of the department's anti-drug campaign said they knew nothing about the report.

Rep. Rogers, D., Fla., refused to make the report public, but in a letter to the House from colleagues he acknowledged that the Pentagon was the source of his information.

"You should thoroughly document these charges before throwing them out," said Rep. Archer Nelson, R., Minn. "There are plenty of problems with Pentagon papers, without this committee adding to them."

Other Deals Reported
Rep. Rogers said the big transaction occurred between August and November, but similar deals have taken place within the past four years.

Included among the weapons traded to the Laotian general were American M-16 rifles, 13,000 rounds of ammunition, and high-ranking officers.

Gen. Robert Taber, the deputy assistant secretary of defense for manpower, told Rep. Rogers's subcommittee on health that all American soldiers will be able to take advantage of amnesty programs if they turn themselves in as drug users.

The amnesty program had been run by the military on a trial basis. The Marine Corps had refused to participate, but Marine Gen. Robert Courtney said the Marine Corps will join the Army, Navy and Air Force in the program, Gen. Taber said.

Syria Breaks Off Pipeline-Royalty Talks With IPC

BEIRUT, July 2 (UPI)—Syria has broken off negotiations with the International Petroleum Consortium "in disagreement over higher transit royalties."

A statement by the government in Damascus threatening "proper action at the proper time" against the Iraq Petroleum Co. has aroused fears in oil quarters here of a new Middle East oil crisis.

The time involving the transit countries. During the last crisis, late in 1968, between Syria and IPC which is owned by American, British, French and Dutch interests, the government seized all the company's property in Syria and shut off the flow of oil for three months.

The pipeline that carries Iraqi crude to Baniyas, a terminal on the Syrian Mediterranean coast and to Tripoli, in northern Lebanon. The pipeline, currently operating at full capacity of over a million barrels a day, runs 555 miles from Kirkuk, in northern Iraq, to Baniyas, and 535 miles from Kirkuk to Tripoli.

Floods in Nepal Take 250 Lives

KATMANDU, Nepal, July 3 (Reuters)—More than 250 people have died in floods in the last two weeks, according to reports reaching here today.

With communications between the capital and many areas still cut off because of the heavy rains, it is feared the toll may go higher. Serious damage to property with many houses destroyed is reported from several areas of the country.

PLAY TIME—One of the performers in the San Diego water show playing with 2 dolphins. . . or vice-versa.

Cosmonauts' Funeral Held; Death Cause Still a Secret

(Continued from Page 1)
Mr. Brezhnev, Mr. Kosygin, and Mr. Podgorny, among others, carried the biers containing the urns with the ashes of the cosmonauts to the wall of the Kremlin behind Lenin's Mausoleum. There in three freshly made slots in the wall, the urns were placed, as cannons boomed.

The stress in the speeches was on the heroism of the cosmonauts and the need to continue in the space program that they had furthered. If authorities had decided to hold back future flights because of the tragedy, this was not evident from the oratory.

During the speeches, the urns were placed in front of Lenin's Mausoleum, and the top leaders mounted the tribune above the mausoleum. Mr. Brezhnev seemed quite broken up by the proceedings and several times took out his handkerchief to wipe a tear from his eye.

Andrej P. Kirilenko, a Politburo member, who was head of the funeral commission, gave the major address, saying that the Soviet Union would continue the difficult but necessary work of unraveling "the mysteries of the universe for the good of man."

He said, at this hour of grief, parting with our dear comrade cosmonauts, we assure our Communist party, the heroic Soviet people that we will worthily continue the cause of space exploration," he said.

Vladimir A. Shtalov, a Soviet cosmonaut, said that "Soviet astronauts are fully aware that the road into space is untraveled, difficult and complex."

And today, at this hour of grief, parting with our dear comrade cosmonauts, we assure our Communist party, the heroic Soviet people that we will worthily continue the cause of space exploration," he said.

In the honored crowd in Red Square was Thomas P. Stafford, an American astronaut who flew in specially this morning for the funeral as President Nixon's envoy. He was warmly greeted by Soviet colleagues and officials.

At the time of the funeral for Vladimir M. Komarov, who died in the crash of Soyuz-1 in April 1967, the Russians refused to admit an American astronaut to the funeral.

This morning, some details on the last hours of the Soyuz-1 crew were revealed in the newspaper Trud.

It said that Col. Dobrovolski radiated as the Soyuz detached from the Salyut about 9:30 p.m. Tuesday Moscow time.

"This is Amber-1 (his code name). Everything is in order on board, we feel fine, we're ready for landing. I see the station. It's shining beautifully in the sun."

Mr. Volkov had said on the radio: "You look down there and you get homesick. You want some sunshine, fresh air, and to wander in the woods."

In the last minutes, after radio contact was lost, the ground control kept saying "Amber, this is Dawn (ground control's code name), come in! Amber, this is Dawn, come in."

Sato's Cabinet Quits To Permit Reshuffle

TOYOYO, July 2 (AP)—Prime Minister Eisaku Sato's cabinet resigned today so that he can form a new government. Informal sources said Mr. Sato will announce his new lineup Monday.

The cabinet had been in office since January, 1970. Mr. Sato decided to shuffle it after the upper house elections Sunday, in which his Liberal Democratic Party lost one seat.

Italy's Hotels Stay Open in 3-Day Strike

Services Curtailed; Other Walkouts Due

ROME, July 2 (AP)—A three-day nationwide hotel strike went into its second day today with hotel owners asserting that 60 percent of hotel employees are ignoring the strike call. The unions said, however, that only 15 percent decided to work.

Whichever is correct, hotels remained open—but most of them with curtailed bar, restaurant, porter and room services at a time when Italy is engulfed by millions of sun-seeking tourists.

Labor Minister Carlo Donat Cattin held meetings with union and hotel representatives in an effort to break the deadlock in the four-month hotel strike in four months.

Mr. Donat Cattin's proposal to raise the monthly minimum wage for hotel employees to $120 and reduce the work week from 48 hours to 40 had already been turned down by the management as unacceptable.

In the meantime, blue-collar state workers voted for a one-day national strike next Wednesday, and railway workers were called out for a one-day walkout July 19 over better working conditions.

Milan Buses Halt
In Milan, bus drivers walked off their jobs for three hours and said they would do the same Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday to protest the breakdown of wage negotiations.

In Rome the hotel strike was scheduled to last five days. The strike cut off the large luxury or first-class hotels, which employ a large number of workers.

Many smaller hotels and boarding houses in the capital and seaside resorts are family establishments that can offer services even if some of their employees are on strike.

On the Adriatic Riviera, around Rimini, striking hotel workers returned to their jobs, since their walkout was confined to 24 hours. In Milan hotel employees were expected to go back to work tomorrow, since they started their strike a day earlier.

7 Top Designers Leave Italy's Fashion Group

ROME, July 2 (UPI)—Seven of Italy's best-known designers quit the national fashion organization today.

Roberto Capucci, Fausto, Federico Forquet, Pino Lancetti, Heinz Riva, Andre Laug and Barocco handed in their resignations, they or their colleagues reported, amid charges of politics and mismanagement by the government-sponsored Camera Nazionale della Moda.

The resignations capped a months-long feud about who is or is not a high-fashion designer and who has the right to say so—and to hand out government grants to help pay for the fashion shows which bring hundreds of foreign buyers here four times a year.

Other designers have quit or said today they will quit the group, which coordinates activities in an industry which garnered Italy $2.83 billion in foreign sales last year.

Those figures include high-fashion, ready-to-wear, accessories and textiles, a combination second only to cars and machines as Italy's leading export industry.

Manila Court Seizes Time Inc. Property in Suit

MANILA, July 2 (Reuters)—A Manila court has ordered the attachment of all properties here of Time Inc., a private American corporation, pending a 50-million- peso ($13 million) libel suit filed against it by Philippine President Ferdinand Marcos.

Judge Jesus Jimenez, of the Manila Court of First Instance, told reporters an order granting a writ of attachment was issued yesterday after the suit was filed.

Judge Jimenez said the order meant that all properties of the corporation, including cash deposits and bank accounts, could not be removed, transferred or sold until further court order.

The case arose from an article published in the April 12 issue of Time news magazine. The 52-year-old chief of state charged in his 18-page complaint that the article depicted him as "a dishonest official," "a corruptor," "a dictator" and "imperialist."

Judge Jimenez said the president, represented by a battery of lawyers headed by two retired Supreme Court justices, had posted a three million peso ($800,000) bond to cover any damages Time Inc. might incur due to the attachment should the complaint later be found baseless.

FUN? Of course not. But we can make your next move as pleasant as possible.

MIDI INTERNATIONAL
268 Rue Lecourbe, Paris-15e. Tel.: 532-84-08; Telex: 25622.
MIDI INTERNATIONAL LTD.
277 Crenbrook Road, Ilford (Essex) Tel.: 01-544-33-23; Telex: 896338.
HOUSEHOLD GOODS, BAGGAGE, AUTOMOBILES
Agents for major American & Overseas motels.
Weekly Service - Cote d'Azur and Provence.

Bronchial Ills Replace Cholera as Worst Killer E. Pakistan Refugees Face New Peril

CALCUTTA, July 2 (UPI)—Pneumonia and bronchitis have replaced cholera as the biggest killer of East Pakistan war refugees exposed to chilling monsoon rains. West Bengal state's director of health services said today.

"The need of the hour here is not inoculation now, but tarpaulins—in fact any type of cover that can protect the refugees from rains," said Dr. P. Saha.

Dr. Saha said thousands of refugees were living with no overhead cover and rain was taking a heavy toll, particularly among the old and among sick refugees, many of them exhausted by their journey from East Pakistan.

State health officials are still recording an average of 352 cholera cases each day, with an average 59 deaths daily.

Dr. Saha said the number of cholera cases among the refugees now was no higher than the normal incidence of the disease in West Bengal at this time of year.

Other state government officials placed the total of refugees in India's West Bengal state at more than five million. More than seven million refugees are reported to have crossed into India from East Pakistan.

West Bengal's director of relief and rehabilitation, B. Mandal, said refugees were continuing to cross the border into India at the rate of 25,000 to 40,000 a day.

India Assails Yahya Statement
NEW DELHI, July 2 (AP)—Foreign Minister Swarn Singh decided today that Pakistani President Yahya Khan's broadcast four days ago was "obnoxious" and would "pave the way for the breakup" of Pakistan.

Mr. Singh told Parliament that Mr. Yahya—by announcing he would impose his own constitution and would not make any political settlement with the banned Awami League of Sheikh Mujibur Rahman—had "negated for all time to come any chances of return of democracy" to Pakistan.

The broadcast, Mr. Singh said, had "created a situation in which his (Mr. Yahya's) action alone will be mainly responsible for the people of Bangladesh carrying on the struggle for freedom and getting rid of the stranglehold of the military regime."

Soviet Maneuvers Over
VIENNA, July 2 (UPI)—Warsaw Pact air and ground forces held maneuvers on Czechoslovak and East German territory June 24 through today, the Czechoslovak news agency CTK announced.

N.Y. Suit Filed On Pakistan Ship Carrying Arms

NEW YORK, July 2 (AP)—A suit was filed in federal court today to prevent the departure of a ship believed to be carrying arms to Pakistan, but the vessel slipped over to Port Newark in New Jersey and was due to sail later in the day.

The action was filed in the Southern District of New York against the Regional Commissioner of the Bureau of Customs, and attorneys conceded that the court might not act before the ship leaves.

The ship, the 10,000-ton freighter, Kaptai of Pakistani registry, was moored at a New York pier earlier this week, but it was moved to a New Jersey pier a few days ago.

Albert Blaustein, a Rutgers Law School professor, filed the suit and originally had named the ship as defendant, seeking to prevent its departure. He said he is working for the "Bangla-Desh American Foundation."

Argentina Puts Falklands Claim Off Indefinitely

LONDON, July 2 (AP)—Argentina has agreed to shelve its claim to sovereignty over the British Falkland Islands colony in the South Atlantic indefinitely, the Foreign Office said today.

A spokesman said the two countries had agreed to establish air links between Argentina and the Falklands with their 2,000 inhabitants and to improve postal, cable and telephone connections.

Draft proposals of the agreement, approved by British and Argentine ministers, will enable Falklanders to travel to Argentina without the risk of being enlisted for military service.

Argentina has claimed the islands since 1832 as successors to Spain in the region. Britain's claim is based on naval landings in the 1700s when Lord Falkland was first lord of the admiralty.

The Falklanders, mostly of English and Scottish descent, are mainly sheep farmers and speak English.

Malawi's Banda Plans State Visit To South Africa

ZOMBE, Malawi, July 2 (AP)—President Hastings Kamuzu Banda is to pay a state visit to South Africa in August. It was also announced today that both countries have agreed to raise their diplomatic representation from legation to embassy level.

No other head of a black African state has ever visited this country. The South African prime minister, John Vorster, visited Malawi last year.

Mr. Banda told Parliament here that he knew he would be severely criticized and even condemned by other black African states. "But I am indifferent, totally indifferent, to that," he told members.

"I shall go there in the open, in broad daylight for all to see, to hear and to note."

FROM ANTWERP BELGIUM
the
DIAMOND
for you
Now buy a Diamond at better than wholesale prices from a first source firm located at the Diamond center of the world. Buy quality diamonds at tremendous savings to you. Buy a Diamond for someone you love, gifts, or personal use. Write for free brochure or visit:
INTERNATIONAL DIAMOND SALES
Diamond Center
51, Boulevard de la Woluwe
1200 Brussels - Belgium
ALL DIAMONDS ARE GUARANTEED

The Swiss obsession with punctuality:
It finally produced the Eterna Sonic
At Eterna we've been obsessed with punctuality for over 100 years.
Finally, we decided that we should not merely concentrate our efforts on improving the conventional watch.
So we turned to electronics.
The electronic watch uses an incredibly accurate tuning fork mechanism. Which you don't need to wind up. And which hums instead of ticks.
Before we came along it was the most accurate wristwatch you could buy.
But we went even further.
We added what we call a "flexion oscillator," which makes sure the tuning fork vibrates with exactly the same frequency, no matter its position on your wrist. Which makes it that much more accurate.
Our Eterna Sonic will keep the same accurate time day in day out: less than 2 seconds variance a day.

Official Student Flights within Europe, to the Middle East and other areas may be booked or reconfirmed at

BRITISH STUDENT TRAVEL CENTRES		SCANDINAVIAN STUDENT TRAVEL SERVICE
LONDON 44 Gough St. W1 Tel: 01-437-1241	ATHENS 100, E. Thessaloniki Tel: 01-222-224	LONDON 15 Great Newport St. Tel: 01-240-2289	PARIS 125 Rue de Valenciennes Tel: 01-272-2278

Countdown International Educational Exchange
ROME Via Veneto 13 Tel: 06-478-5258	PARIS 69 Rue de Valenciennes Tel: 01-276-0800

New York Stock Exchange Trading

Table of New York Stock Exchange trading data, including columns for stock symbols, prices, and volume. Includes sub-sections for 'A' and 'B' stocks.

Table of international stock exchange trading data, including columns for stock symbols, prices, and volume. Includes sub-sections for 'C' and 'D' stocks.

Mutual Funds advertisement. Title: 'How to place your portfolio under investment management starting with as little as $5,000'. Includes text about Danforth Associates and a list of mutual funds.

Table of Toronto Stock exchange trading data, including columns for stock symbols, prices, and volume.

Neuwirth International Fund advertisement. Title: 'Neuwirth International Fund ranked highest in 1970 out of over 760 worldwide equity funds surveyed'. Includes text about the fund's performance and contact information.

Audience advertisement. Title: 'Audience You're in good company when you read the Herald Tribune...'. Includes text about the newspaper's readership and contact information.

EEC Seen Nearing Monetary Reform Pact

By Richard Norton-Taylor

BRUSSELS, July 2 (WP).—The six EEC states are expected to adopt a joint approach to monetary reforms before the Sept. 26 annual meeting of the International Monetary Fund in Washington...

VW Elects Labor Board

WOLFSBURG, West Germany, July 2 (AP-DJ).—Shareholders of Volkswagenwerk elected yesterday ten new members of its 21-man supervisory board...

Meanwhile, Mr. Schiller announced today that he would introduce draft legislation in the West German parliament after the summer recess that would require corporations to deposit money in a frozen account...

The new board members were elected with an 89.8 percent majority. This was expected because the Bonn government and the state government of Lower Saxony...

On the issue of an early return of the DM to a fixed parity, for which Mr. Giscard d'Estaing was pressing, Mr. Schiller reiterated today his earlier position that Bonn would agree to the DM's return to a fixed parity...

FRANKFURT, July 2 (AP-DJ).—The Bundesbank sold nearly $150 million today for $500 to $550 deutsche marks per dollar, dealers reported. It was the second time this week that the central bank showed in the market as a dollar seller...

Japan Earns Giant Surplus In Payments

Rises to $1.183 Billion After Year-Ago Deficit

TOKYO, July 2 (AP-DJ).—Japan's payments surplus totaled a record $1.183 billion in May, compared with a deficit of $78 million a year earlier...

May's total doubled the previous record monthly net inflow of $599 million in March. The ministry attributed the gain to another large trade surplus, to heavy net investment in Japanese securities by foreigners...

Errors and omissions showed a surplus of $284 million, compared with a $415 million surplus in May 1970. The ministry did not explain the stable increase.

Long-term capital transactions registered a net inflow of $139 million, compared with a deficit of $179 million a year earlier. A large amount of foreign money was invested in stocks and bonds following the May monetary crisis...

The June increase was recorded after repayment of $21 billion in foreign debts, the Treasury said. The steady rise in the nation's monetary reserves caused hardly a ripple in the London foreign exchange and stock markets...

Attempts to extend codetermination to other industries have been strongly opposed by industry. The opposition Christian Democrats and the Free Democratic party, partners of the Social Democrats in the Bonn government...

Nissan Raises Prices TOKYO, July 2 (AP-DJ).—Nissan Motor Co. said today it will raise prices on all vehicles exported to the United States by 5 percent from September.

OECD Sees America As a Capital Importer

By Clyde H. Farnsworth

PARIS, July 2 (NYT).—A secret working paper of the Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD) sees the United States as a capital importing country by 1975, a role that is usually played by the poorer nations of the world.

The OECD staff study, known as Medium-Term Trends, was prepared for a meeting July 8-9 here of Working Party No. Three, a group of monetary officials from the ten richest countries...

The OECD staff study, known as Medium-Term Trends, was prepared for a meeting July 8-9 here of Working Party No. Three, a group of monetary officials from the ten richest countries...

Hitachi Profit Drops 7.3 Pct.

TOKYO, July 2 (AP-DJ).—Hitachi's consolidated profits fell 7.3 percent to $140 million in the year ended March 31 from $151 million the previous year, the company said today.

Earnings were equal to $4.69 per American Depository Share (one ADS equals 80 common shares), down from $5.34 per ADS. Consolidated sales rose 16.4 percent to $3,228 billion from $2,858 billion a year earlier.

Orders received during the year rose 19 percent to $4 billion, and the backlog on March 31 was 2.39 billion, up 39 percent from a year earlier.

In a related development, the Tax Administration Agency reported combined profits of major Japanese enterprises for the half-year ended March 31 dropped from the preceding term for the first time in six years.

The agency said the declared incomes of 1,479 firms capitalized at 100 million yen ($277,777) or more fell 1.5 percent to 1,176.4 billion yen ($2,367 billion), reflecting the business slowdown during the six-month period.

Combined sales, however, rose 4.8 percent from the previous period to 28,905.4 billion yen ($58,292 billion) the agency said. Profits increased in eight other business lines including banking, transport, communication and oil refining.

WASHINGTON, July 2 (Reuters).—Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield D., Mont., said today he could not see Congress passing a broadened bill helping finance the ailing Lockheed Aircraft Corp. until at least September.

The delay would mean the Aug. 8 deadline publicly set by the British government for a decision on financing for Lockheed's TriStar Airbus with Rolls-Royce engines would not be met.

Sen. Mansfield said, "There will be no bill passed by Aug. 8 as I see it."

Jobless Rate In U.S. Drops

WASHINGTON, July 2 (Reuters).—The seasonally adjusted June unemployment rate fell to 5.6 from 6.2 percent in May, the Labor Department reported today.

At 5.6 percent, the June rate was the lowest since October 1970. The Bureau of Labor statistics said, "These declines may be somewhat overstated because of the seasonal adjustment procedures and because more young workers than usual were still in school during the survey week."

The actual number of unemployed persons soared in the month to 5.49 million from 4.394 million in May. But the total labor force rose to 87,784 million in the month from 85,354 million.

Labor Secretary James Hodgson told a White House press conference the administration believes that by the middle of next year unemployment will be "down below 5 percent and approaching 4.5 percent."

The clear implication of the study is that some form of parity change is necessary to correct the imbalances.

WARSAW, July 2 (NYT).—Poland has signed an agreement with British Petroleum for a ten-year supply of crude oil worth an estimated $500 million. It will be processed at a refinery to be built in Gdansk on the Baltic Coast.

The contract, a milestone in East-West trade, appears also to represent the first major response by an Eastern European government to Moscow's warning that they would soon have to look elsewhere for future fuel sources.

Czechoslovakia and Hungary, for example, are understood to be interested in possible extensions of a planned pipeline that would carry crude oil through Yugoslavia from its Mediterranean port of Rijeka.

The Polish agreement was signed here yesterday without fanfare by Lord Strathairn, BP chairman, and Antoni Potonowski, director of the government enterprise dealing in foreign trade of chemicals.

Company Reports

Table with 2 columns: Company Name, 1971 Revenue (millions), 1970 Revenue (millions), 1971 Profits (millions), 1970 Profits (millions), 1971 Per Share, 1970 Per Share.

Delay Forecast On Lockheed Bill

WASHINGTON, July 2 (Reuters).—Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield D., Mont., said today he could not see Congress passing a broadened bill helping finance the ailing Lockheed Aircraft Corp. until at least September.

The delay would mean the Aug. 8 deadline publicly set by the British government for a decision on financing for Lockheed's TriStar Airbus with Rolls-Royce engines would not be met.

Wall Street Prices Dip In Very Slow Trading

NEW YORK, July 2 (NYT).—New York Stock Exchange prices finished on a mixed note today as trading fell below 10 million shares on the eve of the long Independence Day holiday.

The turnover of 9.96 million shares marked the slowest session of 1971, with the exception of Monday's small-paced volume of 9.81 million shares.

In contrast, daily volume averaged 13.8 million shares in June and 18.94 million during the first six months.

The expectation of a general increase in the prime rate of commercial banks also tended to put a damper on market activity.

The Dow Jones industrial average dipped 2.84 to 890.18. It ended the week with a gain of 18 1/2, mainly reflecting the strong markets on Tuesday and Wednesday.

Volume Leader RCA Corp., the volume leader, eased 5/8 to 35 5/8. After the market close yesterday, when the stock fell 1 3/4, RCA labeled as "completely untrue" the rumors that it intends to sell off its computer division at a large loss.

Warner-Lambert, the biggest point loser on the active roster, dropped 1 3/4 to 74 1/2. The drug and cosmetic concern had disclosed that the Federal Trade Commission plans to issue a formal complaint against its 1970 merger with Parke, Davis.

Gold Inc., was a market feature, climbing 2 1/8 to 39 1/2. The company, formerly known as Gould National Batteries, said it has received an initial $150 million contract from the Defense Department to produce Mark 48 torpedoes.

American Telephone slipped 1/8 to 45 1/4, while General Motors edged up 1/8 to 79 1/4. On the American Stock Exchange, prices edged higher in light trading. The index gained 0.03.

Two Banks Raise Prime Rate to 6 From 5.5 Percent

PHILADELPHIA, July 2 (AP-DJ).—Two banks here raised their prime lending rates to 6 from 5 1/2 percent today.

The two are Fidelity Bank, the nation's 44th largest bank, and Central Penn National, which is No. 143.

Later in the day, Western Pennsylvania National Bank and Central National Bank of Cleveland increased their rates also.

While a few of the smaller banks in the country have increased their key lending rates, the big money-center banks have remained quiet. Yesterday, however, First National City Bank of New York announced it was raising the rate it will pay for negotiable certificates of deposit as much as one-quarter percentage point to 5 3/8 to 6 percent, depending on maturity.

The move itself was no surprise as these rates generally follow money market rates. But the fact that Citibank announced the change was seen laying the groundwork for a boost in the prime rate.

Markets Closed

All U.S. stock exchanges will be closed on Monday, July 5, in observance of Independence Day, which falls this year on Sunday.

Unemployment in U.S. in percentage of work force. Source: U.S. Department of Labor.

BP, Poland Sign $500 Million Oil Supply Accord

WARSAW, July 2 (NYT).—Poland has signed an agreement with British Petroleum for a ten-year supply of crude oil worth an estimated $500 million. It will be processed at a refinery to be built in Gdansk on the Baltic Coast.

The contract, a milestone in East-West trade, appears also to represent the first major response by an Eastern European government to Moscow's warning that they would soon have to look elsewhere for future fuel sources.

Czechoslovakia and Hungary, for example, are understood to be interested in possible extensions of a planned pipeline that would carry crude oil through Yugoslavia from its Mediterranean port of Rijeka.

The Polish agreement was signed here yesterday without fanfare by Lord Strathairn, BP chairman, and Antoni Potonowski, director of the government enterprise dealing in foreign trade of chemicals.

Company Reports

Table with 2 columns: Company Name, 1971 Revenue (millions), 1970 Revenue (millions), 1971 Profits (millions), 1970 Profits (millions), 1971 Per Share, 1970 Per Share.

Delay Forecast On Lockheed Bill

WASHINGTON, July 2 (Reuters).—Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield D., Mont., said today he could not see Congress passing a broadened bill helping finance the ailing Lockheed Aircraft Corp. until at least September.

The delay would mean the Aug. 8 deadline publicly set by the British government for a decision on financing for Lockheed's TriStar Airbus with Rolls-Royce engines would not be met.

Sen. Mansfield said, "There will be no bill passed by Aug. 8 as I see it."

Hitachi Profit Drops 7.3 Pct.

TOKYO, July 2 (AP-DJ).—Hitachi's consolidated profits fell 7.3 percent to $140 million in the year ended March 31 from $151 million the previous year, the company said today.

Earnings were equal to $4.69 per American Depository Share (one ADS equals 80 common shares), down from $5.34 per ADS. Consolidated sales rose 16.4 percent to $3,228 billion from $2,858 billion a year earlier.

Orders received during the year rose 19 percent to $4 billion, and the backlog on March 31 was 2.39 billion, up 39 percent from a year earlier.

In a related development, the Tax Administration Agency reported combined profits of major Japanese enterprises for the half-year ended March 31 dropped from the preceding term for the first time in six years.

The agency said the declared incomes of 1,479 firms capitalized at 100 million yen ($277,777) or more fell 1.5 percent to 1,176.4 billion yen ($2,367 billion), reflecting the business slowdown during the six-month period.

Combined sales, however, rose 4.8 percent from the previous period to 28,905.4 billion yen ($58,292 billion) the agency said. Profits increased in eight other business lines including banking, transport, communication and oil refining.

WASHINGTON, July 2 (Reuters).—Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield D., Mont., said today he could not see Congress passing a broadened bill helping finance the ailing Lockheed Aircraft Corp. until at least September.

The delay would mean the Aug. 8 deadline publicly set by the British government for a decision on financing for Lockheed's TriStar Airbus with Rolls-Royce engines would not be met.

Sen. Mansfield said, "There will be no bill passed by Aug. 8 as I see it."

PANAM The Home Team. We'll pick you up and take you home from 30 different cities in Europe. That's direct service from more European cities to the U.S. than the next 3 airlines combined. It includes Pan Am 747s from London, Paris, Amsterdam, Brussels, Frankfurt, Vienna, Rome, Lisbon and Barcelona. And not just to New York: we have 747s and 707s to 13 U.S. cities in all. East Coast, West Coast and in-between. When you're ready to head home, just give us a call at any one of our 41 offices in Europe. We can help with all the arrangements, take care of all details, through our worldwide PANAMAC computer system. We look forward to welcoming you aboard. From anywhere in Europe.

BUCHERER The largest watch retailer in Switzerland. If you're in: Lucerne, Zurich, Basle, Lugano, Locarno, St. Moritz, Interlaken, Burgenstock, Geneva, or New York tomorrow you should wear our Rolex. The only way to really appreciate the best watch in the world is to wear it on your wrist... see how it looks... and feel the weight of its classic Oyster case. Although each Rolex takes more than a year to make, we have the world's finest collection of Rolex models. May we invite you to see them. Tomorrow.

ROLEX A landmark in the history of time measurement. Call our Allied Van Lines Representative in: Brussels 18 53 00, Rome 68 64 41, Geneva 32 64 40, Rotterdam 29 50 00, London 953 8480, Zurich 42 55 00, Milan 83 38 41. In all other countries, call our European Traffic Coordinator: Bremen 31 36 44. All calls collect, please.

New York Stock Exchange Trading

Table of New York Stock Exchange trading data, including columns for stock symbols, prices, and volume. Includes sub-sections for 'Continued from Page 8' and 'P-Q'.

Table of international stock exchange trading data, including columns for stock symbols, prices, and volume. Includes sub-sections for '1971 - Stocks and Bonds' and '1970 - Stocks and Bonds'.

INTERNATIONAL FUNDS

Table listing various international funds with columns for fund names, assets, and performance metrics.

European Gold Markets

Table showing gold market data for London, Zurich, and other European locations.

Foreign Stock Indexes

Table of foreign stock indexes for Amsterdam, Brussels, Frankfurt, London, Milan, Paris, Rome, Tokyo, and Zurich.

AMERICAN INCOME PROPERTIES

Advertisement for American Income Properties, a corporation investing primarily in income-producing properties.

ELLIS G ZUERICH

Advertisement for Ellis G Zuerich, a broker for Eurobonds and Eurodeposits.

In-Depth Security Analysis of American Companies

Advertisement for Burnham and Company, offering in-depth security analysis of American companies.

Burnham and Company

Advertisement for Burnham and Company, a member firm of the New York American and other principal stock exchanges.

European Markets

Table of European market data, including Amsterdam, Brussels, Frankfurt, London, Milan, Paris, Rome, Tokyo, and Zurich.

Amsterdam

Table of Amsterdam market data.

Brussels

Table of Brussels market data.

Milan

Table of Milan market data.

Paris

Table of Paris market data.

Düsseldorf

Table of Düsseldorf market data.

London

Table of London market data.

Zurich

Table of Zurich market data.

Market Summary

Table summarizing market activity, including most active stocks and volume.

U.S. Commodity Prices

Table of U.S. commodity prices for various goods like wheat, corn, and soybeans.

Market Summary

Table summarizing market activity, including most active stocks and volume.

Business

Article discussing business news, including a report on a stock split and dividend.

New Highs and Lows

Table listing new high and low prices for various stocks.

Fed Proposes Revised Bank Control Rules

Article discussing the Federal Reserve Board's proposed revision of bank control rules.

One Dollar

Table showing exchange rates for various currencies, including the one-dollar rate.

Down Jones Averages

Table showing the Dow Jones Averages for various markets.

Standard & Poor's

Table showing Standard & Poor's stock prices.

500-Stock Lot Trading in N.Y.

Table showing 500-stock lot trading data for various companies.

American Stock Exchange Trading

Main table containing American Stock Exchange Trading data, including columns for High, Low, Last, and Net Change for various stocks.

Handwritten text: 'بازار بورس' (Bourse Market)

Table with columns: High, Low, Last, Net Change. Contains stock data for various companies.

Table with columns: High, Low, Last, Net Change. Contains stock data for various companies.

Table with columns: High, Low, Last, Net Change. Contains stock data for various companies.

Table with columns: High, Low, Last, Net Change. Contains stock data for various companies.

Table with columns: High, Low, Last, Net Change. Contains stock data for various companies.

Table with columns: High, Low, Last, Net Change. Contains stock data for various companies.

International Bonds Traded in Europe

Table listing international bonds traded in Europe, including columns for bond name, price, and yield.

News section with a headline 'Reporting as objective as humanly possible...' and a small illustration of a person.

PACIFIC-WEST INTERNATIONAL CORPORATION advertisement, featuring a logo and text about services and prices.

CARIBICO GROWTH FUND N.V. advertisement, including a logo and text about investment opportunities.

PEANUTS

B.C.

WIL ABNER

BEE TLE BAILEY

MIS PEACH

BUZ SAWYER

WIZARD of ID

REX MORGAN M.D.

POGO

RIP KIRBY

BLONDIE

DENNIS THE MENACE

JUMBLE - that scrambled word game

Jumble word game section with words like FRATE, ALCKO, TIFFUL, TEFNIC and a grid for the answer.

Answers: No speak English and SHE NICE - but mixed up - CHINESE

BOOKS

EARTH, AIR, FIRE AND WATER. Selected and edited by Frances Monson McCullough. Coward, McCann & Geoghegan. 190 pp. $5.95.

MINDSCAPES. Poems for the Real World. Edited by Richard Peck. Delacorte Press. 165 pp. $4.95.

Reviewed by Walter Clemons

Two anthologies of modern poems with identical aims and similar biases. The oldest poet in both books is Whitman.

Richard Peck's taste is, I'm sorry, insipid, though 'Mindscapes' has a very 'New Look' starting out with Rod McKuen.

Richard Peck's taste is, I'm sorry, insipid, though 'Mindscapes' has a very 'New Look' starting out with Rod McKuen.

Richard Peck's taste is, I'm sorry, insipid, though 'Mindscapes' has a very 'New Look' starting out with Rod McKuen.

Richard Peck's taste is, I'm sorry, insipid, though 'Mindscapes' has a very 'New Look' starting out with Rod McKuen.

Richard Peck's taste is, I'm sorry, insipid, though 'Mindscapes' has a very 'New Look' starting out with Rod McKuen.

Richard Peck's taste is, I'm sorry, insipid, though 'Mindscapes' has a very 'New Look' starting out with Rod McKuen.

Richard Peck's taste is, I'm sorry, insipid, though 'Mindscapes' has a very 'New Look' starting out with Rod McKuen.

Richard Peck's taste is, I'm sorry, insipid, though 'Mindscapes' has a very 'New Look' starting out with Rod McKuen.

Richard Peck's taste is, I'm sorry, insipid, though 'Mindscapes' has a very 'New Look' starting out with Rod McKuen.

Richard Peck's taste is, I'm sorry, insipid, though 'Mindscapes' has a very 'New Look' starting out with Rod McKuen.

Richard Peck's taste is, I'm sorry, insipid, though 'Mindscapes' has a very 'New Look' starting out with Rod McKuen.

Richard Peck's taste is, I'm sorry, insipid, though 'Mindscapes' has a very 'New Look' starting out with Rod McKuen.

Richard Peck's taste is, I'm sorry, insipid, though 'Mindscapes' has a very 'New Look' starting out with Rod McKuen.

Richard Peck's taste is, I'm sorry, insipid, though 'Mindscapes' has a very 'New Look' starting out with Rod McKuen.

Richard Peck's taste is, I'm sorry, insipid, though 'Mindscapes' has a very 'New Look' starting out with Rod McKuen.

Richard Peck's taste is, I'm sorry, insipid, though 'Mindscapes' has a very 'New Look' starting out with Rod McKuen.

Richard Peck's taste is, I'm sorry, insipid, though 'Mindscapes' has a very 'New Look' starting out with Rod McKuen.

Richard Peck's taste is, I'm sorry, insipid, though 'Mindscapes' has a very 'New Look' starting out with Rod McKuen.

Richard Peck's taste is, I'm sorry, insipid, though 'Mindscapes' has a very 'New Look' starting out with Rod McKuen.

Richard Peck's taste is, I'm sorry, insipid, though 'Mindscapes' has a very 'New Look' starting out with Rod McKuen.

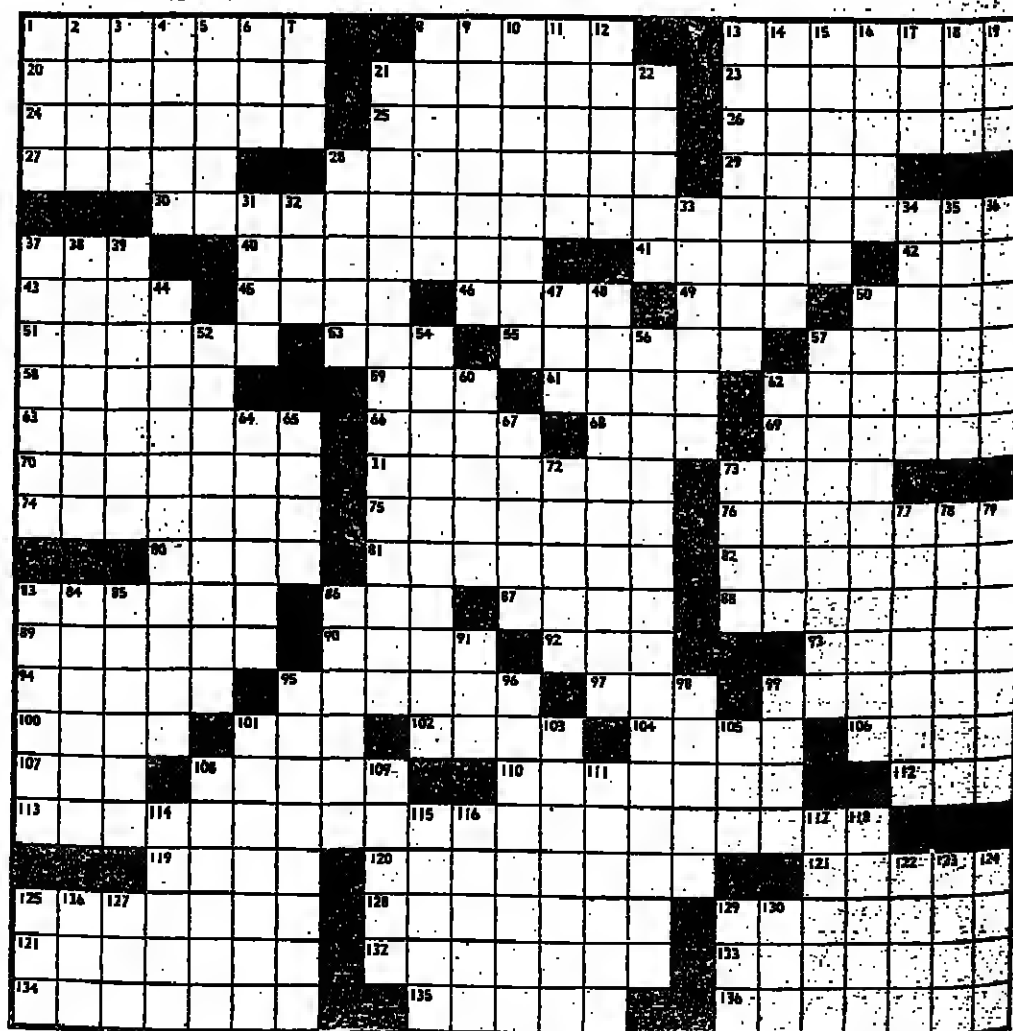

Richard Peck's taste is, I'm sorry, insipid, though 'Mindscapes' has a very 'New Look' starting out with Rod McKuen.

Richard Peck's taste is, I'm sorry, insipid, though 'Mindscapes' has a very 'New Look' starting out with Rod McKuen.

CROSSWORD PUZZLE

Edited by WILL WENG

HERITAGE - By Sylvia Baumgarten

Solution to Last Week's Puzzle

Down: 1. Zazara, 2. Hungary, 3. Consumed, 4. Make an (infinitive), 5. Without (certainty), 6. Somewhat, 7. Wash, neighbor, 8. Atmosphere, 9. Elders and Welby, 10. Result of, 11. Tenth city, 12. Textile workers, 13. Escapes, 14. Honorary mt., 15. Having twin A.C. electric, 16. Spanish greeting, 17. Small hole, 18. Weapons supplier, 19. Doors of a grammar chere, 20. Spotted cat, 21. Sub's weapon, 22. April 19, New England, 23. Latin advrb, 24. Besides the, 25. Bottle town, 26. Drops at, 27. Down, 28. Junior Fluy, 29. Significant place, 30. Party of 1783, 31. Blind, as a falcon, 32. Nash camp near Munich, 33. Entertained, 34. Greave in a pillar, 35. Chasen; Ver, 36. Mrs. Joh Adams, 37. Thin layer, 38. Family name of Duke of Bridgewater, 39. Severe mt., 40. Creamy place, 41. Spanish greeting, 42. Small hole, 43. Weapons supplier, 44. Doors of a grammar chere, 45. Spotted cat, 46. Sub's weapon, 47. April 19, New England, 48. Latin advrb, 49. Besides the, 50. Bottle town, 51. Drops at, 52. Down, 53. Severe mt., 54. Creamy place, 55. Spanish greeting, 56. Small hole, 57. Weapons supplier, 58. Doors of a grammar chere, 59. Spotted cat, 60. Sub's weapon, 61. April 19, New England, 62. Latin advrb, 63. Besides the, 64. Bottle town, 65. Drops at, 66. Down, 67. Junior Fluy, 68. Significant place, 69. Party of 1783, 70. Blind, as a falcon, 71. Nash camp near Munich, 72. Entertained, 73. Greave in a pillar, 74. Chasen; Ver, 75. Mrs. Joh Adams, 76. Thin layer, 77. Family name of Duke of Bridgewater, 78. Severe mt., 79. Creamy place, 80. Spanish greeting, 81. Small hole, 82. Weapons supplier, 83. Doors of a grammar chere, 84. Spotted cat, 85. Sub's weapon, 86. April 19, New England, 87. Latin advrb, 88. Besides the, 89. Bottle town, 90. Drops at, 91. Down, 92. Junior Fluy, 93. Significant place, 94. Party of 1783, 95. Blind, as a falcon, 96. Nash camp near Munich, 97. Entertained, 98. Greave in a pillar, 99. Chasen; Ver, 100. Mrs. Joh Adams, 101. Thin layer, 102. Family name of Duke of Bridgewater, 103. Severe mt., 104. Creamy place, 105. Spanish greeting, 106. Small hole, 107. Weapons supplier, 108. Doors of a grammar chere, 109. Spotted cat, 110. Sub's weapon, 111. April 19, New England, 112. Latin advrb, 113. Besides the, 114. Bottle town, 115. Drops at, 116. Down, 117. Junior Fluy, 118. Significant place, 119. Party of 1783, 120. Blind, as a falcon, 121. Nash camp near Munich, 122. Entertained, 123. Greave in a pillar, 124. Chasen; Ver, 125. Mrs. Joh Adams, 126. Thin layer, 127. Family name of Duke of Bridgewater, 128. Severe mt., 129. Creamy place, 130. Spanish greeting, 131. Small hole, 132. Weapons supplier, 133. Doors of a grammar chere, 134. Spotted cat, 135. Sub's weapon, 136. April 19, New England, 137. Latin advrb, 138. Besides the, 139. Bottle town, 140. Drops at, 141. Down, 142. Junior Fluy, 143. Significant place, 144. Party of 1783, 145. Blind, as a falcon, 146. Nash camp near Munich, 147. Entertained, 148. Greave in a pillar, 149. Chasen; Ver, 150. Mrs. Joh Adams, 151. Thin layer, 152. Family name of Duke of Bridgewater, 153. Severe mt., 154. Creamy place, 155. Spanish greeting, 156. Small hole, 157. Weapons supplier, 158. Doors of a grammar chere, 159. Spotted cat, 160. Sub's weapon, 161. April 19, New England, 162. Latin advrb, 163. Besides the, 164. Bottle town, 165. Drops at, 166. Down, 167. Junior Fluy, 168. Significant place, 169. Party of 1783, 170. Blind, as a falcon, 171. Nash camp near Munich, 172. Entertained, 173. Greave in a pillar, 174. Chasen; Ver, 175. Mrs. Joh Adams, 176. Thin layer, 177. Family name of Duke of Bridgewater, 178. Severe mt., 179. Creamy place, 180. Spanish greeting, 181. Small hole, 182. Weapons supplier, 183. Doors of a grammar chere, 184. Spotted cat, 185. Sub's weapon, 186. April 19, New England, 187. Latin advrb, 188. Besides the, 189. Bottle town, 190. Drops at, 191. Down, 192. Junior Fluy, 193. Significant place, 194. Party of 1783, 195. Blind, as a falcon, 196. Nash camp near Munich, 197. Entertained, 198. Greave in a pillar, 199. Chasen; Ver, 200. Mrs. Joh Adams, 201. Thin layer, 202. Family name of Duke of Bridgewater, 203. Severe mt., 204. Creamy place, 205. Spanish greeting, 206. Small hole, 207. Weapons supplier, 208. Doors of a grammar chere, 209. Spotted cat, 210. Sub's weapon, 211. April 19, New England, 212. Latin advrb, 213. Besides the, 214. Bottle town, 215. Drops at, 216. Down, 217. Junior Fluy, 218. Significant place, 219. Party of 1783, 220. Blind, as a falcon, 221. Nash camp near Munich, 222. Entertained, 223. Greave in a pillar, 224. Chasen; Ver, 225. Mrs. Joh Adams, 226. Thin layer, 227. Family name of Duke of Bridgewater, 228. Severe mt., 229. Creamy place, 230. Spanish greeting, 231. Small hole, 232. Weapons supplier, 233. Doors of a grammar chere, 234. Spotted cat, 235. Sub's weapon, 236. April 19, New England, 237. Latin advrb, 238. Besides the, 239. Bottle town, 240. Drops at, 241. Down, 242. Junior Fluy, 243. Significant place, 244. Party of 1783, 245. Blind, as a falcon, 246. Nash camp near Munich, 247. Entertained, 248. Greave in a pillar, 249. Chasen; Ver, 250. Mrs. Joh Adams, 251. Thin layer, 252. Family name of Duke of Bridgewater, 253. Severe mt., 254. Creamy place, 255. Spanish greeting, 256. Small hole, 257. Weapons supplier, 258. Doors of a grammar chere, 259. Spotted cat, 260. Sub's weapon, 261. April 19, New England, 262. Latin advrb, 263. Besides the, 264. Bottle town, 265. Drops at, 266. Down, 267. Junior Fluy, 268. Significant place, 269. Party of 1783, 270. Blind, as a falcon, 271. Nash camp near Munich, 272. Entertained, 273. Greave in a pillar, 274. Chasen; Ver, 275. Mrs. Joh Adams, 276. Thin layer, 277. Family name of Duke of Bridgewater, 278. Severe mt., 279. Creamy place, 280. Spanish greeting, 281. Small hole, 282. Weapons supplier, 283. Doors of a grammar chere, 284. Spotted cat, 285. Sub's weapon, 286. April 19, New England, 287. Latin advrb, 288. Besides the, 289. Bottle town, 290. Drops at, 291. Down, 292. Junior Fluy, 293. Significant place, 294. Party of 1783, 295. Blind, as a falcon, 296. Nash camp near Munich, 297. Entertained, 298. Greave in a pillar, 299. Chasen; Ver, 300. Mrs. Joh Adams, 301. Thin layer, 302. Family name of Duke of Bridgewater, 303. Severe mt., 304. Creamy place, 305. Spanish greeting, 306. Small hole, 307. Weapons supplier, 308. Doors of a grammar chere, 309. Spotted cat, 310. Sub's weapon, 311. April 19, New England, 312. Latin advrb, 313. Besides the, 314. Bottle town, 315. Drops at, 316. Down, 317. Junior Fluy, 318. Significant place, 319. Party of 1783, 320. Blind, as a falcon, 321. Nash camp near Munich, 322. Entertained, 323. Greave in a pillar, 324. Chasen; Ver, 325. Mrs. Joh Adams, 326. Thin layer, 327. Family name of Duke of Bridgewater, 328. Severe mt., 329. Creamy place, 330. Spanish greeting, 331. Small hole, 332. Weapons supplier, 333. Doors of a grammar chere, 334. Spotted cat, 335. Sub's weapon, 336. April 19, New England, 337. Latin advrb, 338. Besides the, 339. Bottle town, 340. Drops at, 341. Down, 342. Junior Fluy, 343. Significant place, 344. Party of 1783, 345. Blind, as a falcon, 346. Nash camp near Munich, 347. Entertained, 348. Greave in a pillar, 349. Chasen; Ver, 350. Mrs. Joh Adams, 351. Thin layer, 352. Family name of Duke of Bridgewater, 353. Severe mt., 354. Creamy place, 355. Spanish greeting, 356. Small hole, 357. Weapons supplier, 358. Doors of a grammar chere, 359. Spotted cat, 360. Sub's weapon, 361. April 19, New England, 362. Latin advrb, 363. Besides the, 364. Bottle town, 365. Drops at, 366. Down, 367. Junior Fluy, 368. Significant place, 369. Party of 1783, 370. Blind, as a falcon, 371. Nash camp near Munich, 372. Entertained, 373. Greave in a pillar, 374. Chasen; Ver, 375. Mrs. Joh Adams, 376. Thin layer, 377. Family name of Duke of Bridgewater, 378. Severe mt., 379. Creamy place, 380. Spanish greeting, 381. Small hole, 382. Weapons supplier, 383. Doors of a grammar chere, 384. Spotted cat, 385. Sub's weapon, 386. April 19, New England, 387. Latin advrb, 388. Besides the, 389. Bottle town, 390. Drops at, 391. Down, 392. Junior Fluy, 393. Significant place, 394. Party of 1783, 395. Blind, as a falcon, 396. Nash camp near Munich, 397. Entertained, 398. Greave in a pillar, 399. Chasen; Ver, 400. Mrs. Joh Adams, 401. Thin layer, 402. Family name of Duke of Bridgewater, 403. Severe mt., 404. Creamy place, 405. Spanish greeting, 406. Small hole, 407. Weapons supplier, 408. Doors of a grammar chere, 409. Spotted cat, 410. Sub's weapon, 411. April 19, New England, 412. Latin advrb, 413. Besides the, 414. Bottle town, 415. Drops at, 416. Down, 417. Junior Fluy, 418. Significant place, 419. Party of 1783, 420. Blind, as a falcon, 421. Nash camp near Munich, 422. Entertained, 423. Greave in a pillar, 424. Chasen; Ver, 425. Mrs. Joh Adams, 426. Thin layer, 427. Family name of Duke of Bridgewater, 428. Severe mt., 429. Creamy place, 430. Spanish greeting, 431. Small hole, 432. Weapons supplier, 433. Doors of a grammar chere, 434. Spotted cat, 435. Sub's weapon, 436. April 19, New England, 437. Latin advrb, 438. Besides the, 439. Bottle town, 440. Drops at, 441. Down, 442. Junior Fluy, 443. Significant place, 444. Party of 1783, 445. Blind, as a falcon, 446. Nash camp near Munich, 447. Entertained, 448. Greave in a pillar, 449. Chasen; Ver, 450. Mrs. Joh Adams, 451. Thin layer, 452. Family name of Duke of Bridgewater, 453. Severe mt., 454. Creamy place, 455. Spanish greeting, 456. Small hole, 457. Weapons supplier, 458. Doors of a grammar chere, 459. Spotted cat, 460. Sub's weapon, 461. April 19, New England, 462. Latin advrb, 463. Besides the, 464. Bottle town, 465. Drops at, 466. Down, 467. Junior Fluy, 468. Significant place, 469. Party of 1783, 470. Blind, as a falcon, 471. Nash camp near Munich, 472. Entertained, 473. Greave in a pillar, 474. Chasen; Ver, 475. Mrs. Joh Adams, 476. Thin layer, 477. Family name of Duke of Bridgewater, 478. Severe mt., 479. Creamy place, 480. Spanish greeting, 481. Small hole, 482. Weapons supplier, 483. Doors of a grammar chere, 484. Spotted cat, 485. Sub's weapon, 486. April 19, New England, 487. Latin advrb, 488. Besides the, 489. Bottle town, 490. Drops at, 491. Down, 492. Junior Fluy, 493. Significant place, 494. Party of 1783, 495. Blind, as a falcon, 496. Nash camp near Munich, 497. Entertained, 498. Greave in a pillar, 499. Chasen; Ver, 500. Mrs. Joh Adams, 501. Thin layer, 502. Family name of Duke of Bridgewater, 503. Severe mt., 504. Creamy place, 505. Spanish greeting, 506. Small hole, 507. Weapons supplier, 508. Doors of a grammar chere, 509. Spotted cat, 510. Sub's weapon, 511. April 19, New England, 512. Latin advrb, 513. Besides the, 514. Bottle town, 515. Drops at, 516. Down, 517. Junior Fluy, 518. Significant place, 519. Party of 1783, 520. Blind, as a falcon, 521. Nash camp near Munich, 522. Entertained, 523. Greave in a pillar, 524. Chasen; Ver, 525. Mrs. Joh Adams, 526. Thin layer, 527. Family name of Duke of Bridgewater, 528. Severe mt., 529. Creamy place, 530. Spanish greeting, 531. Small hole, 532. Weapons supplier, 533. Doors of a grammar chere, 534. Spotted cat, 535. Sub's weapon, 536. April 19, New England, 537. Latin advrb, 538. Besides the, 539. Bottle town, 540. Drops at, 541. Down, 542. Junior Fluy, 543. Significant place, 544. Party of 1783, 545. Blind, as a falcon, 546. Nash camp near Munich, 547. Entertained, 548. Greave in a pillar, 549. Chasen; Ver, 550. Mrs. Joh Adams, 551. Thin layer, 552. Family name of Duke of Bridgewater, 553. Severe mt., 554. Creamy place, 555. Spanish greeting, 556. Small hole, 557. Weapons supplier, 558. Doors of a grammar chere, 559. Spotted cat, 560. Sub's weapon, 561. April 19, New England, 562. Latin advrb, 563. Besides the, 564. Bottle town, 565. Drops at, 566. Down, 567. Junior Fluy, 568. Significant place, 569. Party of 1783, 570. Blind, as a falcon, 571. Nash camp near Munich, 572. Entertained, 573. Greave in a pillar, 574. Chasen; Ver, 575. Mrs. Joh Adams, 576. Thin layer, 577. Family name of Duke of Bridgewater, 578. Severe mt., 579. Creamy place, 580. Spanish greeting, 581. Small hole, 582. Weapons supplier, 583. Doors of a grammar chere, 584. Spotted cat, 585. Sub's weapon, 586. April 19, New England, 587. Latin advrb, 588. Besides the, 589. Bottle town, 590. Drops at, 591. Down, 592. Junior Fluy, 593. Significant place, 594. Party of 1783, 595. Blind, as a falcon, 596. Nash camp near Munich, 597. Entertained, 598. Greave in a pillar, 599. Chasen; Ver, 600. Mrs. Joh Adams, 601. Thin layer, 602. Family name of Duke of Bridgewater, 603. Severe mt., 604. Creamy place, 605. Spanish greeting, 606. Small hole, 607. Weapons supplier, 608. Doors of a grammar chere, 609. Spotted cat, 610. Sub's weapon, 611. April 19, New England, 612. Latin advrb, 613. Besides the, 614. Bottle town, 615. Drops at, 616. Down, 617. Junior Fluy, 618. Significant place, 619. Party of 1783, 620. Blind, as a falcon, 621. Nash camp near Munich, 622. Entertained, 623. Greave in a pillar, 624. Chasen; Ver, 625. Mrs. Joh Adams, 626. Thin layer, 627. Family name of Duke of Bridgewater, 628. Severe mt., 629. Creamy place, 630. Spanish greeting, 631. Small hole, 632. Weapons supplier, 633. Doors of a grammar chere, 634. Spotted cat, 635. Sub's weapon, 636. April 19, New England, 637. Latin advrb, 638. Besides the, 639. Bottle town, 640. Drops at, 641. Down, 642. Junior Fluy, 643. Significant place, 644. Party of 1783, 645. Blind, as a falcon, 646. Nash camp near Munich, 647. Entertained, 648. Greave in a pillar, 649. Chasen; Ver, 650. Mrs. Joh Adams, 651. Thin layer, 652. Family name of Duke of Bridgewater, 653. Severe mt., 654. Creamy place, 655. Spanish greeting, 656. Small hole, 657. Weapons supplier, 658. Doors of a grammar chere, 659. Spotted cat, 660. Sub's weapon, 661. April 19, New England, 662. Latin advrb, 663. Besides the, 664. Bottle town, 665. Drops at, 666. Down, 667. Junior Fluy, 668. Significant place, 669. Party of 1783, 670. Blind, as a falcon, 671. Nash camp near Munich, 672. Entertained, 673. Greave in a pillar, 674. Chasen; Ver, 675. Mrs. Joh Adams, 676. Thin layer, 677. Family name of Duke of Bridgewater, 678. Severe mt., 679. Creamy place, 680. Spanish greeting, 681. Small hole, 682. Weapons supplier, 683. Doors of a grammar chere, 684. Spotted cat, 685. Sub's weapon, 686. April 19, New England, 687. Latin advrb, 688. Besides the, 689. Bottle town, 690. Drops at, 691. Down, 692. Junior Fluy, 693. Significant place, 694. Party of 1783, 695. Blind, as a falcon, 696. Nash camp near Munich, 697. Entertained, 698. Greave in a pillar, 699. Chasen; Ver, 700. Mrs. Joh Adams, 701. Thin layer, 702. Family name of Duke of Bridgewater, 703. Severe mt., 704. Creamy place, 705. Spanish greeting, 706. Small hole, 707. Weapons supplier, 708. Doors of a grammar chere, 709. Spotted cat, 710. Sub's weapon, 711. April 19, New England, 712. Latin advrb, 713. Besides the, 714. Bottle town, 715. Drops at, 716. Down, 717. Junior Fluy, 718. Significant place, 719. Party of 1783, 720. Blind, as a falcon, 721. Nash camp near Munich, 722. Entertained, 723. Greave in a pillar, 724. Chasen; Ver, 725. Mrs. Joh Adams, 726. Thin layer, 727. Family name of Duke of Bridgewater, 728. Severe mt., 729. Creamy place, 730. Spanish greeting, 731. Small hole, 732. Weapons supplier, 733. Doors of a grammar chere, 734. Spotted cat, 735. Sub's weapon, 736. April 19, New England, 737. Latin advrb, 738. Besides the, 739. Bottle town, 740. Drops at, 741. Down, 742. Junior Fluy, 743. Significant place, 744. Party of 1783, 745. Blind, as a falcon, 746. Nash camp near Munich, 747. Entertained, 748. Greave in a pillar, 749. Chasen; Ver, 750. Mrs. Joh Adams, 751. Thin layer, 752. Family name of Duke of Bridgewater, 753. Severe mt., 754. Creamy place, 755. Spanish greeting, 756. Small hole, 757. Weapons supplier, 758. Doors of a grammar chere, 759. Spotted cat, 760. Sub's weapon, 761. April 19, New England, 762. Latin advrb, 763. Besides the, 764. Bottle town, 765. Drops at, 766. Down, 767. Junior Fluy, 768. Significant place, 769. Party of 1783, 770. Blind, as a falcon, 771. Nash camp near Munich, 772. Entertained, 773. Greave in a pillar, 774. Chasen; Ver, 775. Mrs. Joh Adams, 776. Thin layer, 777. Family name of Duke of Bridgewater, 778. Severe mt., 779. Creamy place, 780. Spanish greeting, 781. Small hole, 782. Weapons supplier, 783. Doors of a grammar chere, 784. Spotted cat, 785. Sub's weapon, 786. April 19, New England, 787. Latin advrb, 788. Besides the, 789. Bottle town, 790. Drops at, 791. Down, 792. Junior Fluy, 793. Significant place, 794. Party of 1783, 795. Blind, as a falcon, 796. Nash camp near Munich, 797. Entertained, 798. Greave in a pillar, 799. Chasen; Ver, 800. Mrs. Joh Adams, 801. Thin layer, 802. Family name of Duke of Bridgewater, 803. Severe mt., 804. Creamy place, 805. Spanish greeting, 806. Small hole, 807. Weapons supplier, 808. Doors of a grammar chere, 809. Spotted cat, 810. Sub's weapon, 811. April 19, New England, 812. Latin advrb, 813. Besides the, 814. Bottle town, 815. Drops at, 816. Down, 817. Junior Fluy, 818. Significant place, 819. Party of 1783, 820. Blind, as a falcon, 821. Nash camp near Munich, 822. Entertained, 823. Greave in a pillar, 824. Chasen; Ver, 825. Mrs. Joh Adams, 826. Thin layer, 827. Family name of Duke of Bridgewater, 828. Severe mt., 829. Creamy place, 830. Spanish greeting, 831. Small hole, 832. Weapons supplier, 833. Doors of a grammar chere, 834. Spotted cat, 835. Sub's weapon, 836. April 19, New England, 837. Latin advrb, 838. Besides the, 839. Bottle town, 840. Drops at, 841. Down, 842. Junior Fluy, 843. Significant place, 844. Party of 1783, 845. Blind, as a falcon, 846. Nash camp near Munich, 847. Entertained, 848. Greave in a pillar, 849. Chasen; Ver, 850. Mrs. Joh Adams, 851. Thin layer, 852. Family name of Duke of Bridgewater, 853. Severe mt., 854. Creamy place, 855. Spanish greeting, 856. Small hole, 857. Weapons supplier, 858. Doors of a grammar chere, 859. Spotted cat, 860. Sub's weapon, 861. April 19, New England, 862. Latin advrb, 863. Besides the, 864. Bottle town, 865. Drops at, 866. Down, 867. Junior Fluy, 868. Significant place, 869. Party of 1783, 870. Blind, as a falcon, 871. Nash camp near Munich, 872. Entertained, 873. Greave in a pillar, 874. Chasen; Ver, 875. Mrs. Joh Adams, 876. Thin layer, 877. Family name of Duke of Bridgewater, 878. Severe mt., 879. Creamy place, 880. Spanish greeting, 881. Small hole, 882. Weapons supplier, 883. Doors of a grammar chere, 884. Spotted cat, 885. Sub's weapon, 886. April 19, New England, 887. Latin advrb, 888. Besides the, 889. Bottle town, 890. Drops at, 891. Down, 892. Junior Fluy, 893. Significant place, 894. Party of 1783, 895. Blind, as a falcon, 896. Nash camp near Munich, 897. Entertained, 898. Greave in a pillar, 899. Chasen; Ver, 900. Mrs. Joh Adams, 901. Thin layer, 902. Family name of Duke of Bridgewater, 903. Severe mt., 904. Creamy place, 905. Spanish greeting, 906. Small hole, 907. Weapons supplier, 908. Doors of a grammar chere, 909. Spotted cat, 910. Sub's weapon, 911. April 19, New England, 912. Latin advrb, 913. Besides the, 914. Bottle town, 915. Drops at, 916. Down, 917. Junior Fluy, 918. Significant place, 919. Party of 1783, 920. Blind, as a falcon, 921. Nash camp near Munich, 922. Entertained, 923. Greave in a pillar, 924. Chasen; Ver, 925. Mrs. Joh Adams, 926. Thin layer, 927. Family name of Duke of Bridgewater, 928. Severe mt., 929. Creamy place, 930. Spanish greeting, 931. Small hole, 932. Weapons supplier, 933. Doors of a grammar chere, 934. Spotted cat, 935. Sub's weapon, 936. April 19, New England, 937. Latin advrb, 938. Besides the, 939. Bottle town, 940. Drops at, 941. Down, 942. Junior Fluy, 943. Significant place, 944. Party of 1783, 945. Blind, as a falcon, 946. Nash camp near Munich, 947. Entertained, 948. Greave in a pillar, 949. Chasen; Ver, 950. Mrs. Joh Adams, 951. Thin layer, 952. Family name of Duke of Bridgewater, 953. Severe mt., 954. Creamy place, 955. Spanish greeting, 956. Small hole, 957. Weapons supplier, 958. Doors of a grammar chere, 959. Spotted cat, 960. Sub's weapon, 961.

